Smoking now prohibited from town-owned recreational facilities

By CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

WILMINGTON - In a move that is directly targeted at protecting town beaches and the children who use them, the Board of Health recently passed a regulation having to do with tobacco use.

The regulation (reg.8.22) states: "Smoking and the use of any tobacco product(s), is hereby prohibited in Wilmington at town-owned playgrounds, parks, beaches, beach areas, recreational areas and facilities." The regulation took effect as soon as it was published in the legal notices section of local papers in September.

Gregory Erickson, Director of Public Health in Wilmington, cited the presence of cigarette butts strewn all over the town-owned beaches as one specific reason for the regulation. Aside from the obvious aesthetic aspect, cigarette butts that may still be burning are a health and safety risk for barefoot children.

Erickson said the regulation will "protect public properties where our kids will be playing." He also emphasized that the regulation only affects 'town-owned' land. For more information about the complete set of tobacco regulations, visit the Town of Wilmington website at www.town.wilmington.ma.us. At the homepage, click on the "Public Safety" heading, and then the "Public Health" link. Wilmington's health regulations can be downloaded from that site. Smoking regulations are items 8.0 through 8.22.

No market for Mega Mall

Mixed-use proposed for property

By JAYNE W. MILLER

TEWKSBURY/WILMINGTON - A Mega Mall for Tewksbury is officially "off the table," announced Simon spokesperson David Wahr at a Tri-Town Task Force meeting last Thursday. State and Federal support for the Lowell Junction Interchange project, increasing over the last two months, encouraged the mall developer to begin considering plans for the Perkins property, located in South Tewksbury.

The Perkins Family Trust, which currently owns a large parcel of land in the area being considered for development, had previously entered into agreement with The Mills for sale of the property. The Mills, prior to its financial downfall, planned to construct a 750,000-square foot mall on the property.

Speaking near the end of the meeting, Wahr, formerly a representative for The Mills, told the task force that Simon is now "involved in the planning stages" of a mixed-use project strongly oriented toward retail. Simon's objective for the project has a New England neighborhood feel offering shopping, dining, entertainment and luxury town homes all in one package.

"Simon is looking to see how (the Perkins property) fits with its current properties," commented Wahr, referring to the Burlington Mall, Pheasant Lane Mall in Nashua, NH, Rockingham Park in Salem, NH, and the North Shore Mall

Though the prospect of a Mega Mall has been taken off the table for the land adjacent to a new I-93 interchange to be located between Route 125 and Dascomb Road, a major landowner on the Andover side of the highway is proposing a mixed use development comprised of retail, office, and residential components.

Be fit - anytime you want

Area's first 24-hour facility is giving back to the community

By MARCY RAGUCCI

WILMINGTON - Anytime Fitness is not like the other fitness facilities in the area. Located at 3 Lopez Road (off Concord Rd.) in Wilmington, it is the area's only 24-hour fitness facility. It opened on March 17th earlier this year. The facility is open 24/7 365 days a year and is located right off Route 93.

Anytime Fitness founders researched the needs of gym enthusiasts before developing the concept of a 24-hour fitness facility. As result of that comprehensive research, it was determined that prospective members are looking for a fast and easy workout that accommodates their schedule.

Louie Piazza, owner of Anytime Fitness, will host an Open House on Monday, October 15th to benefit charities. Piazza explains, "This event will be the first in what will be an annual event. It's called Celebrating Everyday Super Heroes, a campaign where we'll honor local heroes and raise money for worthy causes."

Donations will go to the American Heart Association as well as a Wilmington charity, Local Heroes, a non-profit organization working to support local servicemen and service-women and their families.

Local Heroes Founder and President, Lou Cimaglia says, "We have been meeting every Wednesday night since

A makeover for the Foley Barn

If the cows ever come home...they'll have someplace to stay

By JULIE FENNELL

WILMINGTON - At 110 years old, the Foley Farm at 2 Kilmarnock Avenue is the town's only remaining working farm. Though each year the fields flourish with mums and the bee colonies continue to produce honey and wax, one part of the thriving property has struggled to survive the harsh New England elements.

The old barn rests at the corner of West Street and Kilmarnock Avenue, adjacent to the Foley residence. It's been quietly sitting there for a very long time. Owners Larry and Dorothy Foley don't know the actual year the barn was built, but it predates the original saltbox portion of their home built in the late 1700's for Levi Parker.

"Back then, people built their businesses before they built their homes," explained Larry Foley. "The barn was originally built as a blacksmith shop."

In the 1700's and 1800's it was the perfect location for a blacksmith due to its proximity to the stage coach stop across the street. It stood at the intersection of two well traveled roads - one leading to Andover (now known as West Street) and the other leading to Reading (now known as Kilmarnock Street). A large stone referred to as the 'stepping stone' still rests in the exact location where passengers disembarked from the stage coach.

In 1897, Levi's son Justin Parker sold the farm, including the barn, to Larry's grandfather Joseph Foley. The property was converted into a dairy farm which became home to 26 cows, two horses and several chickens. To make room for the livestock, Joe Foley built an addition to the barn nearly doubling it in size.

"My sister and I had a great time in that barn when we were little. We used to slide down from the third floor loft into the hay on the first floor," recalled Foley.

A few yards from the barn stands an old 'milk house' that has survived the years. After the cows were milked, the milk buckets were stored in the chilled milk house. Then they were transported to the creamery in Lynn. Over time, the dairy business dissolved.

"My mother Isabelle got rid of all the cows and chickens," said Foley. "She said 'All livestock has to go because it brings rats!' so the barn became a place where we separated our potato crops and stored vegetables each season."

In 1978, arsonists broke into the back of the barn and set it on fire. The structure was heavily damaged and many stored items were destroyed. The culprits were never apprehended. Although the barn was weakened by the blaze, it was deemed structurally sound and was spared from a worse fate.

The barn was repaired, and was again used primarily for storage until 2001. In March of 2001, a blizzard hit the region and nearly destroyed the barn.

"It was a heavy, wet blizzard and it caused the

Milestone for Miceli

By LARZ F. NEILSON

WILMINGTON - With Jim Miceli busy running in the Fifth District Congressional race this summer, a major anniversary has slipped by without much

In January 1966, he and Melvin Bloom received letters from Wilmington Town Manager Richard Henneberger, informing them that they were no longer members of the Planning Board. The selectmen had voted to reduce the board to five members.

There was little question that the move, pushed by Lloyd Bender, was undertaken to silence Miceli. Instead, it sparked his political career. Miceli ran for selectman in a field of six candidates vying for two seats.

On March 3, 1966, the Town Crier ran an editorial. The Phearless Phorecast, predicting that Miceli would win. "That gentleman has positively got coffee running out of his ears, he has been attending so many house parties. After Saturday's election, he will probably drink nothing but tea for three weeks."

The "phorecast" was right, as far as the election outcome. Miceli topped the ticket. Whether he drank tea for three weeks is not known.

He was re-elected as selectman three times, and was chairman twice. He twice ran

Bicycling skills class in Wilmington

BOSTON: The Massachusetts Bicycle Coalition (MassBike) has scheduled a cycling skills class in Wilmington. The two-part class, known as "Basic Bicycling Skills," is for adults who want to get back into bicycling, improve cycling skills, learn to ride more effectively and safely in traffic, and/or participate in a large-scale benefit ride.

The class comprises an evening classroom session covering bike safety principles, bicycling laws, guidelines for riding in traffic, and more, and a morning on-bike session providing guided instruction with simple practice drills in a parking lot, easy-paced riding on local roadways for short distances, and group discussion breaks along the way. A League Cycling Instructor, certified by the League of American Bicyclists, will teach the class.

"MassBike's bicycling skills classes are a great way for a bicyclist to get more comfortable riding on busy roads," said MassBike executive director David Watson. "Our classes help people get more comfortable on their bikes, better understand and follow traffic laws, and improve their situational awareness of everything going on around them on the road." The scheduled dates are Thursday, October 11 from 6:30-9p.m. for the classroom session, and Saturday, October 13 from 8:30a.m.-12:30p.m. for the on-bike session. Bicycles are not needed for the Thursday evening portion, but are required (along with helmets) for the Saturday morning portion.

Pre-registration is required. Students can register online at http://www.massbike.org/catalog/product\_info.php?cPath=28&products\_id=50 or by calling MassBike at 617-542-2453.

MassBike improves the bicycling environment in Massachusetts and encourages bicycling for fun, fitness, and transportation. MassBike's programs focus on legislative action; road and transportation infrastructure design to improve bicycle access and safety; education for bicyclists, motorists, and police; and bicycle commuting.

WHAT STATE WILL TAX YOU?

If you live and work in one state and have always lived there, that's where you pay taxes. That's easy.

But what if you live in one state and work for an employer in another state—even if you telecommute? Some states will tax that earned income, unless you're living out of state at "the convenience of the employer." If your own state taxes your income, it may provide a credit against the taxes paid to another state.

If you have two homes, in two states, both may claim you as a resident. It's wise to make clear which is to be your primary home by moving your bank accounts, voting privileges and auto license there. Update your will to meet the new state's requirements and, most important, plan to spend more than 183 days there a year.

Federal law mandates that only your current state of residence can tax your income from qualified retirement plans or IRAs, but another state can tax rental or business income.

When you need professional know-how, you need to the folks at:

What's that lamp worth? Maybe this night will brighten your day

TEWKSBURY - Imagine finding out that you have an item that is worth $30,000 - $50,000. That is what happened at the last Antiques Appraisal Night hosted by the Merrimack Valley Rotary Club. Who knows what treasures will be discovered at the next Antiques Appraisal night to be held on October 17 from 7-9 PM at the Tewksbury Hospital Old Chapel, on East Street in Tewksbury. The event features Skinner's appraiser Stuart Whitehurst of the famed Antiques Roadshow and is being held to raise much needed funds for equine therapy programs at T.H.E. FARM in Tewksbury. T.H.E. FARM is a non-profit organization that provides therapeutic equestrian programs for the clients of the Tewksbury Hospital, as well as public riding programs and special events to individuals of all abilities. T.H.E. FARM is dedicated to providing a safe environment where therapeutic and equine education comes first. "Certainly that valuable item was the extreme of the items that were brought to the last event," said Merrimack Valley Rotary President Ken Masson. "But there were other surprises such as paintings that were found in the trash that turned up worth several hundreds of dollars." Residents who have such items stored away in their closet, attics, and basements are urged to purchase a ticket to the show and find out just how much of a treasure they have. Appraisals are $20 and general admission is $10. For more information contact Ken Masson at 978-446-9366 or by writing to MVRotary@gmail.com.

Artistic display of Jack O' Lanterns

BOSTON - Celebrate the autumn splendor by carving up some pumpkins in the spirit of Halloween. Get out your best carving tools, pick out a pumpkin, and show what your carving skills are made of as part of the Fifth Annual Camp Sunshine Pumpkin Festival on October 20, 2007 at Boston City Hall Plaza. The event is presented by Market Basket supermarkets and all proceeds will benefit Camp Sunshine, a national retreat for children with life-threatening illnesses and their families.

In 2006, 100,000 spectators watched first hand as 30,128 lit jack o' lanterns shattered the Guinness World Record and helped to create an event Bostonians would be talking about for months.

"With the record behind us, and a new location at City Hall Plaza, we are looking to making this year's event a much more artistic festival," said Matt Hoidal, Executive Director for Camp Sunshine. Which is why a challenge has been sent out to New England based art schools to take part in the "Great Pumpkin Challenge".

Camp Sunshine will be providing each school with 100 pumpkins to attempt to build the most visually stunning display at City Hall Plaza. Prizes will be awarded to the winning team or teams.

Babson College, Maine College of Art, The New England Institute of Art, and The Art Institute of Boston at Lesley University have signed on for the challenge.

According to Hoidal, "The festival's display will be full of an impressive range of surprising and inventive collaborations. Expect some dynamic looking pumpkins from the talented students and faculty who are participating in this project." Hoidal added that "while the event will focus more on the artistic display this year than in years past, the world record for the most lit jack-o-lanterns is still at stake, so the public is encouraged to bring their carved pumpkins."

All proceeds from the event will benefit Camp Sunshine, a national retreat for children with life-threatening illnesses and their families. Nestled alongside the shores of beautiful Sebago Lake, the year-round program is free of charge and staffed almost entirely by volunteers. The camp has the distinction of being the only program in the nation whose mission is to address the impact of a life threatening illness on every member of the immediate family-the ill child, the parents, and the siblings. Since its inception, Camp Sunshine has provided a haven for over 23,000 individuals from diverse cultural backgrounds.

In addition to jack-o-lanterns and live music, there will be magic shows, a costume parade, pie-eating contest, face painting, great food and of course pumpkin carving.

The event will start at Noon and will end at 8 p.m. The event is free of charge.

Market Basket supermarkets has signed onto the event as the presenting sponsor. Other sponsors include Ernie Boch Jr.'s Music Drives Us Foundation, WBOS 92.9, FOX 25, JetBlue Airways, Digitas, New Penn Trucking, Village Candle, Kittery Trading Post, and Gifford's Ice Cream.

To support Camp Sunshine and for more information on the festival please call 207-655-3800 or visit www.campsunshine.org.

Letters to the editor

Runners needed

Dear Editor,
A note of thank you to Tom Pazyra, Laura Ahern and the many other organizers and volunteers for the 3rd Annual Wilmington Half Marathon and 5K race that was run on September 30th. The race is a great event that could quickly become another "uniquely Wilmington" happening, similar to the 4th of July festivities.

The race is run perfectly. The course is mostly flat, winding through many of the scenic streets of Wilmington. Each mile is marked clearly with a person shouting out times to the runners. There are frequent water stops manned by volunteers and even makeshift water stops manned by neighborhood children. There are many well-wishers outside their houses giving encouragement and even our own high school cheerleaders aiding the tired runners.

What's missing? Runners. This year, there were 152 runners (104 for the half marathon and 48 running the 5K). To keep the event viable, more runners are needed.

Help keep a great event going! Feel good that your money will go to charity. Feel proud when you complete the course. Challenge yourself to run next year. Races are welcome to all shapes and sizes; the only race time that matters is the one you set yourself.

Thank you again to Laura, Tom and the organizers. Your time, energy and efforts are greatly appreciated.

A vote for Ron Hall

Dear Editor,
Tewksbury has recently stepped out from the dark ages into the light of new leadership. Three capable, brand new selectmen elected inside of the last six months...who would have thought?

It is in continuing along that vein that I am supporting Ron Hall for the fifth and final seat to the board in the upcoming special election. His name may not be as "recognizable" to some as the other two candidates, but rest assured Ron has been working diligently behind the scenes for the benefit of this community for years. He has served on many town committees, including the Townwide Budget Subcommittee, The Ames Hill Mitigation Committee and others, and is presently the Vice-chair of the Patriotic Activities Committee working to raise funds to save our Town Parade and Veterans' and Independence Day Activities. As current chairman of Tewksbury's Finance Committee, Ron Hall has the background skills to help tackle the town's fiscal problems.

What you see is what you get with Ron and I am confident he is ready to dig in full time as your selectman and work collaboratively with the rest of the new board to get the job done. Let us continue in this positive direction our town has recently taken. Please join me in voting for Ron Hall for Selectman on Oct. 16th.

A vote for Doug Sears

Dear Tewksbury residents,
The residents of Tewksbury need a Selectman that understands our problems and has solutions. The problems we face must be addressed head-on. Hoping that the problems will go away is no longer an option. Sears has the courage, determination and the skills necessary to make a huge difference while getting Tewksbury back on course.

Doug Sears is a tough and honorable candidate that can be trusted, his words have meaning. We need Sears now.

The October 16th Town Election should be about change. Doug Sears is the person best equipped to implement that change.

The town faces three major problems that require immediate attention.

1. Budget crisis.
2. Town Employee morale problems
3. Crumbling municipal buildings

Our financial problems are causing pain and suffering not only for the taxpayers but the town employees as well.

There continues to be endless squabbling between departments for a larger piece of the fiscal pie. The pie is gone yet the squabbling continues.

Morale will remain low until fiscal responsibility has been restored. Town employees are facing the business end of the stick from the taxpayers. It is difficult for anyone to be productive when they all wish that they were somewhere else. They are leaving government because they have had enough. They are dedicated employees and do not deserve to be treated in this manner. Trying to please everyone has pleased no one. How do you negotiate with people that have simply had enough?

We are not facing this fiscal crisis because taxes are too low; we are facing this crisis because we spend far too much and negotiate far too little. Doug Sears opposes new taxes and new fees as a means of solving this problem. Problems are seldom solved by throwing taxpayers' money at them. Senior citizens on fixed income understand that. Problems are solved by confronting them. Doug Sears is not afraid of confrontation yet his human side allows him to be fair and honest. For those that say that no new taxes and no new fees is a recipe that will fail, I say how do you know you have never tried it.

We are fortunate that qualified citizens such as Doug Sears want this job especially at this time. It is not fun running a government that is broke.

Doug Sears has the heart, temperament, knowledge and the skills that are demanded during this difficult period. Doug Sears will not have to go on defense, he can move directly to offense.

Sears has a love for Tewksbury that far exceeds even my own.

Sears has nothing to prove, he has led before and will get the job done. His educational background and years of experience as a former Selectman and School Committee member will guide him.

I urge you to vote for change not more of the same, move forward with Doug Sears on October 16th. Do your part by voting. Doug Sears needs our votes and we need Doug Sears.

The well dressed man

What happened to the well-dressed man? It was a must when presenting yourself to make a good impression. It showed respect to the girl you were dating, and to your fellow workers. It meant you cared and were willing to put time and energy into being presentable. It made you conscious of being acceptable. It was a form of responsibility that disallowed laziness or indifference. This concern was part of a building block toward success.

Until the age of forty, I was a construction worker. I was a laborer, cabinetmaker, and a carpenter. I loved my work but always envied the working well dressed man. He was usually an official with authority. His position usually commanded respect. To me he represented a person of importance. As a young person this meant a lot to me.

After many years of Night College I finally could identify with this importance. It meant more to me than most because my dream was to be a psychotherapist. I was finally being trained as a therapist. I joined a group of interns to visit a psychiatric hospital. We were all dressed in our best suits. We passed a construction sight where five men were digging a deep hole. Covered with dirt they all looked up at us. I could have been wrong, but I sensed they were thinking, "I bet these men have never experienced a hard day's work in their lives." I felt good because I could understand this thinking. I had been in their place, and experienced it all. I was finally on the other side, a well-dressed working-man. It didn't make me a better man, but it gave me an opening to a professional's job.

Whoever thought, the dress style would change to such an extreme? Torn and poor fitting clothes are winning the battle for recognition. The more obnoxious and extreme attire seems to give some people a feeling of more importance. Perhaps it's a way to distinguish oneself from the masses.

Thank God there are still some men who believe being well dressed is a pleasurable obligation. My good friend Jack still holds on to this ideal. His appearance is impeccable as he repairs printing machines. He commands respect and admiration while working in many business offices. He is many times taken for the manager or the boss, while the boss in his sweatshirt is seen as a worker. The new generation dress code (even though extreme) is gaining momentum. Their innovations are like a plague affecting the general population. The white-collar workers are affected, but it takes them longer to change. They started by shedding their jackets, then their ties, now they are exchanging their dress shirts for T-shirts. It won't be long before they will have holes in their pants.

There are many times and places for leisure comfortable clothing. Be aware of the times being well dressed will make a difference in your success. It may seem insignificant, but, it can affect others' assessment of your culture, values, and your success. Most importantly you will simply look a lot better.

Training women to train their dogs

I received a call from a woman who said that her family dog had many behavioral issues. If they weren't addressed soon, Gloria said she would have to get rid of her dog, Minnie. The issues included jumping on people (especially young children), being a menace when visitors came to the front door, barking at almost anything, and sometimes even growling at her and her friends. On walks, Minnie sometimes would lunge at other dogs and nearly pull Gloria over.

Gloria clearly was distressed and hoped these problems could be remedied. She was concerned, however, that Minnie may need to be sent to the Humane Society, and possibly even destroyed.

I let Gloria know that these seemingly severe issues could be tackled, much to the relief of Gloria. Gloria said that she would check with her husband and call me again to set a date for training. When I didn't hear from Gloria for several days, I called her and heard a story I have heard over and over again.

Gloria had checked with her husband, who said, "There's no need to train Minnie. I don't have any problems with her. It's your problem." Minnie never received training, and within a month she was sent to the Humane Society, much to the distress of Gloria and her children.

Bark Busters behavioral therapists unfortunately hear this story so often they can almost predict the outcome. Approximately 85 percent of the calls Busters receives for help are from women and too often dogs from these families are not trained because of an imprudent decision on the part of one owner or spouse.

It is a fact that dogs are more submissive to men than they are to women due to a man's often greater height and his lower, deeper voice. Dogs gain dominance over each other using their height and low voice tone, such as growling, and these attributes can also be used by people to gain dominance over their dogs.

Gloria's husband may have been right when he said that he, unlike Gloria, didn't have issues with the dog. But the remedy is the responsibility of both owners, both spouses. The husband's approach of telling his wife that it was "her problem" and not agreeing to have the dog trained is irresponsible.

In addition, women in general tend to be more nurturing than men, which typically causes dogs to take advantage of them and to treat the woman as one of the pack instead of the leader. As a result, women have a distinct disadvantage when trying to control a dog's behavior.

When men understand this and realize that women may not be able to gain dominance over the dog without understanding how to do so, then they are more open to spending the few dollars required to bring peace and joy into the family. In only hours of training, women and men can understand the simple techniques needed to control their dog's behavior - for a lifetime. ## Preparing preschoolers for Halloween

By Wendy Keen,
Education Services Coordinator, Children's Collaborative CPC

Naturally, if you ask any child about their favorite part of Halloween, they would joyfully reply, "Candy!" If the thought of your son or daughter running around in anticipation of sugar and chocolate makes you wince, just think of the behaviors preschool teachers and family childcare providers see on the days leading up to and just following Halloween!

"I have a 'Harvest Party' with my children," explains Karen Stairs. Stairs owns and operates A Step Ahead Family Day Care, a home childcare program affiliated with the Clarendon Family Child Care system in Lowell. "We make pumpkin cookies and homemade applesauce for our party." Other center-based programs do have more traditional Halloween parties.

"We have a party with treats that are also nutritious," says Lorene Griffin, director of the KinderCare Learning Center in Billerica. "We allow the children to dress up if they choose." Maria Chirco, director of Billerica's A Brighter Rainbow Learning, says her centers also welcome special classroom treats from parents, but that she requires that snacks be "peanut-free" to guard against any allergic reactions in the center.

Though children often look forward to dressing up in costumes and having fun says Deborah Dobens, owner and operator of Li'l Cherubs, a home childcare provider also in Clarendon, she warns, "scary costumes can cause children to become afraid."

Lorraine Pasciuto owner and director of Home Away from Home, a family childcare program in Dracut agrees. "Costumes can scare them because they think they're real!" Griffin also adds that at KinderCare, they often find that showing young children their costume ahead of the big day and letting them practice "dressing up" helps them become more comfortable with the idea of wearing their special outfits when it is time to go out.

Many early childhood educators recommend that parents can prepare their young children for the sights and "frights" of Halloween by reading picture books together so that preschoolers have a better sense of what to expect. Bookstores are already stocking Halloween related books, but parents may want to select books aimed at making the scarier parts of Halloween more manageable for younger children. Such books include: The Berenstain Bears Go on a Ghost Walk, by Jan Berenstain;

Halloween Night by Elizabeth Hatch; Omar's Halloween, by Maryann Kovalski; and Los Gatos Black on Halloween by Maria Montes.

It is also never too early, childcare providers stress, to start teaching children a few basic rules to follow to keep Halloween as safe of a holiday as possible. Parents should practice with their children safe ways to cross the street, Dobens suggests, and that treats cannot be eaten "until Mommy and Daddy checks each piece."

Stairs from A Step Ahead Family Day Care reminds the parents of her students to always carry a flashlight and wear bright clothing to maximize the visibility of children out at night. If parents do not feel their children are ready yet for "trick or treating," Pasciuto suggests that families can still enjoy the sights by taking a drive about town to admire the lights and decorations on various houses.

Daniela Santos, director of Greater Visions Children's Center ruefully admits she is not a fan of Halloween. "I'm not comfortable with the messages or the meanings behind Halloween, but I know I can't avoid it with my own children. They want to have fun! It's hard, but I have learned to be honest with them. I tell them what I don't like about Halloween, but I still make the day special for them. We play dress up in costumes at home and I make sure to get them some candy as a little treat."

Having found that some of her center's parents share her discomfort with the holiday, Santos has arranged for her program to have a "Harvest Day" instead of Halloween. Children may dress up if they're interested, but special snacks on that day include such seasonal treats as fresh local apples. "We actually have 'costume days' throughout the school year," Santos points out. "That way children have lots more chances to dress up!"

Halloween, with all of the excitement it brings, can make for a stressful few days for parents and teachers alike. Though scientifically proven as a myth, adults speak grimly of children operating on a "sugar high" where overactive behavior is followed by tearful meltdowns.

Before sending your child to his or her center or home program in costume and with a bag filled with lollipops, to share with friends, please check on "Halloween policy" with your provider or the school's staff. They can suggest ways you can implement a "candy allowance" with your children where doling out a treat or two at a time can help extend the Halloween fun almost until Thanksgiving!

First report expected Oct. 17

MEPA analyst vows detailed review of upgrade I-93/95 interchange

By PATRICK BLAIS

STONEHAM - A state analyst assured local officials yesterday that Mass Highway must file a wealth of information on roadway, wetlands, and drainage impacts before moving ahead with any changes to the I-93/95 cloverleaf.

During a site visit to Stoneham Town Hall on Tuesday afternoon, Mass. Environmental Policy Act (MEPA) analysts Nicholas Zavolas dismissed the need for a special review procedure of the I-93/95 Interchange proposal, citing the work of the regional task force that had already studied the set of recommendations for years.

The general public is allowed to submit comments to MEPA, either for or against the 10 long and short term solutions for congestion at the busy cloverleaf, until Oct. 10.

The environmental agency will then study Mass Highway's filings and issue a report on Oct. 17 that details what parts of the project require additional study.

The public hearing Tuesday officially kicked off the state environmental review process.

According to Zavolas, although he is satisfied that the task force's work has waived the need for the formation of a special citizen's review panel, he recognizes that the proposal should be intensely scrutinized to prevent any negative environmental, traffic, or other impacts from being mitigated.

"I do know that the proponent has had a task force in place. It looks like they've done a really good job in reaching out to people," said the MEPA analyst. "That doesn't mean I don't want to hear what you think about the project."

"There was a notion that this [review] required a special procedure with an extended timeline and an citizens advisory committee," Zavolas added. "But when they came to us with their filing, it was clear that those types of vehicles weren't necessary."

Wetlands and flooding concerns

In Sept. of 2004, after public outcry from Reading, Stoneham, and Woburn sank a previous interchange modification that would have resulted in the seizure of 40 private properties, the I-93/95 Interchange Task Force was formed by Mass Highway.

After 45 meetings, the group of local officials, business groups, and citizen activists endorsed a 10-point recommendation for the future of the cloverleaf, which reportedly processes over 375,000 vehicles per day.

Outside of a number of transit and transportation demand management suggestions, most of which relate to an expansion of the Anderson Regional Transportation Center's operations along Atlantic Avenue in Woburn off 93 just north of the interchange, the task force presented three highway solutions.

Proposal H3-OS would eliminate two of the loop ramps at the interchange, allowing for the pair of remaining loop-ramps to be reconfigured, while overhead flyovers, shooting more directly to highway connections, would be constructed.

The second proposal H3-US, essentially entails the same plan, only the direct flyovers would instead be subsurface, perhaps as much as 40 feet below grade, in order to minimize visual and noise impacts.

For both options, a short-term solution would include widening Route 128 to eliminate a bottleneck caused by the current interchange layout. Specifically a fourth lane would be added along the northbound side from the lane drop to Exit 40 (Route 129), while southbound, the extension would run from Exit 38 and through the interchange area.

Due to the road widenings, the Washington Street bridge would need to be rebuilt.

In addition, in order to alleviate local impacts caused from construction activity, a slip-ramp to I-93 southbound would be added at Cedar Street in Woburn, an improvement intended to release build-ups along Washington Street near the city's industrial park areas.

"The Cedar Street on-ramp was very important, especially to the businesses in Woburn," said Mass Highway Planning Manager Bob Frey. "They felt it was a way to alleviate traffic in the Washington Street and Mishawum Road area, they would be very much in favor of it."

However, according to Woburn City Engineer Jay Corey, the city remained extremely concerned with the Cedar Street traffic valve, as the on-ramp would be placed right against a troublesome flood plain.

Because any new stormwater phenomena or wetlands disturbances could unbalance the very difficult situation in the city's industrial park area, the city engineer requested that more information on the impacts be distributed.

"In our particular circumstances, that southwest corner is a major impact area. We have a flood plain there," said Corey.

(During major storms, the parking lot of some Washington Street businesses, particularly in the area of Staples, often flood).

According to Reading Conservation Commission Administrator Fran Fink, she was also worried about wetlands impacts.

Specifically, Fink pointed out that current Mass Highway graphics haven't incorporated several wetlands resource areas along Wakefield and Reading, which could be drastically impacted by new construction.

The Reading official furthered that if Mass Highway hadn't recognized those zones, its projections in the MEPA filing, that describe how many square feet of wetlands would have to be disturbed, were inaccurate.

"I can tell you about a half-dozen wetlands areas that aren't on these charts," said Fink. "Checking with local town halls, who know what's in their town, is a good source of information."

Corey would later point out that the addition of impervious surface, such as the pavement being added for the lane expansions in I-95, may have impacts to drinking water resources.

According to the city engineer, he has seen a jump in certain types of compounds, such as chlorides, within Woburn's water supply since Mass Highway began relying more heavily on salt and other de-icing agents to clear the highway during the winter months.

"It's becoming a major problem in a lot of communities. I don't know if you've seen anything on water quality as a result of de-icing activities on the highways," Corey commented.

AIM celebrates 20 years

WILMINGTON - Tuesdays are always special at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Wilmington. It's AIM day.

On Tuesday, Oct. 9, Wilmington's AIM gathering will hold its 20th anniversary gathering. AIM, which stands for Access is Mandatory, meets every Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The group is open to anyone, and its focus is providing an outlet for individuals with handicapping conditions.

AIM was brought together by Judy DiPalma, one of Wilmington's Good Guys. The AIM concept began in 1981 with the formation of a handicap access committee. This committee evolved into the Wilmington Handicapped Commission.

The weekly AIM drop-in program began in 1987 as DiPalma's response to a social need among handicapped people, many of whom simply needed an outlet where they could meet with friends.

DiPalma hopes that some long-time friends of the AIM group will be able to attend the celebration.

Tewksbury Rogers St. construction

On Wednesday October 3rd, 2007 sewer construction will begin on Rogers Street from the intersection of Marston St. to Whipple Road. The road will be closed to all traffic from 7:00 AM to 4:00 PM. Detour will be as follows: Rogers Street to Marston Street to Windsor Drive to Whipple Road. ## Tewksbury High ECHO Club

The Tewksbury Memorial High School ECHO Club (Earth, Culture, Humanities Organization) recently spent a morning sprucing up the high school courtyard in an effort to contribute to the school's mission of community service. Thanks to the morning bagels provided by PERFECTOs, and the time, effort, energy and plants provided by the students, the courtyard has taken on a new fall look.

The ECHO Club, which currently has over 60 registered members, is open to all students at the school and is focused on providing opportunities to take part in many cultural and humanitarian projects. Additional activities for this year include trips to the Salem Terror Trail and Newport Mansions, as well as other volunteer drives like the annual food pantry pasta drive and Red Cross Blood Drive in the spring.

Zachary Church graduated training

WILMINGTON - Coast Guard Seaman Zachary A. Church, son of Lorraine and Anthony Church of Wilmington, recently graduated from the U.S. Coast Guard Recruit Training Center in Cape May, N. J.

During the eight-week training program, Church completed a vigorous training curriculum consisting of academics and practical instruction on water safety and survival, military customs and courtesies, seamanship skills, first aid, fire fighting and marksmanship. A major emphasis is also placed on physical fitness, health and wellness. Church and other recruits also received instruction on the Coast Guard's core values - honor, respect and devotion to duty - and how to apply them in their military performance and personal conduct. Church will join 36,000 other men and women who comprise Coast Guard's force.

Men and women train together from the first day in the Coast Guard just as they do aboard ships and shore units throughout the world. To reinforce the team concept, Church, and other recruits were trained in preventing sexual harassment, drug and alcohol awareness, civil rights training, and the basics of the work-life balance, as well as total quality management.

Church is a 2007 graduate of Wilmington High School.

3rd Annual Walk/Run/Fair

TEWKSBURY The Tewksbury Special Education Parent Advisory Council (SPED PAC) announces that its third annual "Families Striding to Help Families Fundraiser" will take place on Saturday, October 27th, 2007 from 8:00 a.m. to 2 p.m., with the runners starting at 9:30 a.m., and the walkers starting at 10:00 a.m. The fundraiser, consisting of a 3-mile run / family walk-a-thon and a street festival, will be located at the Livingston Street Recreation area. The walking route commences at the Livingston Street Recreation area and then proceeds to Chandler Street and East Street, and circles back to the beginning.

According to SPED PAC's treasurer, Keri Barry, the walk-a-thon is the true focus of the event, but there will also be a sponsored fair with over 40 vendors, food, DJ, and demonstrations to make it a fun filled day for the entire family. Everyone in the community is invited to attend the event. There will be something of interest for everyone, said Barry. For the adults, food and wine consultants will offer demonstrations; Debra "Magic Fingers" Fuebel and several other therapists will be in the spa area offering relaxing massages; and various dealers and crafters will be selling their wares ranging from educational toys to jewelry to hand made crafts. For children of all ages and abilities, there will be games, activities, and surprises, including inflatable bouncers, characters (like Mickey and Minnie Mouse, Dora, Spiderman, Shrek and Others), personalities (including John "The Magic Dude"), balloon twisters, train rides, face painting, and photo opportunities. This year's walk will prove to be a little more colorful than past events. Children are invited to dress in costumes for the Monster March which is a short parade within the safe Livingston Park area commencing at approximately 1 p.m. "There are so few activities these days that appeal to the whole family," she said. "What better way to spend an Autumn day than to take a family walk, enjoy the festival, and help raise funds to make life a little easier for deserving children and their families."

Proceeds raised from this event will be used toward seminars, certified educational opportunities and training in Special Education topics for parents, caregivers, teachers and aides, and to develop and host extracurricular activities for Special Education students that cannot compete in mainstream activities due to disabilities. Scholarships and grants are also made several times throughout the year.

Participant Information

For runners or walkers or teams, visit the SPED PAC website (www.tewksburyspedpac.org) for downloadable entrance forms and route. On Wednesday October 10, 2007 at 1:00 p.m. the Senior Center will welcome guest speaker Pam McLaughlin, author of "Celia, Army Nurse and Mother Remembered." With escalating costs and fixed incomes, many elders are looking to reverse mortgages to enable them to remain in their homes and manage their expenses.

Simply stated, a reverse mortgage uses the equity in the home to provide the elder with a monthly income supplement, a line of credit, or a combination of both. Many elders have depleted their retirement savings/annuities to a level that leaves them concerned about the future. In many cases, these elders, especially those who have paid off their mortgages, have a readily available asset in the home's equity.

Reverse mortgages are heavily promoted on radio and TV by a number of financial institutions that specialize in this type of loan as a retail product. These loans, while they allow you to remain in the home for the rest of your life or until you leave it for 12 months or more, are expensive to initiate and require that you purchase insurance to protect the lender from any loss. This results, with the compounding interest, in a steep increase in the accruing debt, i.e., in the depletion of the home's value.

While these loans may be appropriate in some instances, one should be fully informed about the various aspects of these loans and should proceed with caution. Massachusetts Retirees United, in conjunction with Homeowner Options for Massachusetts Elders, (H.O.M.E.) will be offering a seminar on Friday October 26, 2007 at 11:00 a.m. at the Buzzell Senior Center, 15 School St. Wilmington, MA, about the red flags seniors should be aware of in getting involved in a Reverse Mortgage. Mary Cretella, a senior counselor with H.O.M.E. will be the presenter.

"Diabetes Management and More" Part II is here. Wilmington Elder Services is very happy to announce that - with the dedicated assistance of Pat Lyons RN, BSN, CRN - the Department of Elderly Services has received a grant from Northwest

Suburban Community Health Alliance for this program to be able to continue. The goals are to enable you to self-manage your Diabetes through the education, to improve self-monitoring skills, knowledge, self-efficacy, along with coping skills. A Certified Diabetes Educator and nutritionist - Elvira Johnson, MS RD, CDE, and LDN - from Neighborhood Diabetes, and a Social Worker - Catharine Blake - from Wilmington Family Counseling will provide education to achieve positive health-related outcomes through behavioral changes. Wilmington is also very fortunate to have Ann Fitzgerald as its consultant. The program will meet twice a month (2nd and 4th Monday's) for 12 sessions. The "Kick Off" informational session will be held on October 15, 2007 and guest speaker Pam Lyons will explain everything about this great program. Classes will begin on October 29, 2007 and will run through June 08. If you are interested, please sign up at the front desk or call 978-657-7595/978-658-2258.

Danversbank adds asset-based lending team

Danversbank (<http://www.danversbank.com>) Executive Vice President and Senior Lending Officer, Jack O'Neil, is pleased to announce that the bank is broadening its commercial loan services with the addition of an Asset-Based Lending group, to be managed by loan officers who most recently worked at RBS Business Capital/Citizens Bank. In September, Paul E. Flynn and David N. Paikin joined Danversbank to develop the Asset-Based Lending group, and they will be joined in October by Lois Esposito, a lending support specialist. The goal of the targeted lending division is to assist companies with annual sales of $10 to $100 million, in need of credit facilities ranging from $2 to $20 million.

"Over the past ten years, Danversbank has continually looked for opportunities to provide value to business customers, and to differentiate ourselves from the competition," explained O'Neil. "We're pleased to invite Paul and David to join us in that pursuit with the creation of the Asset-Based Lending group."

About Paul E. Flynn

Paul has over thirty years of experience in the banking industry, with a specialty in Asset-Based Lending. His career began at New England Merchants Bank (which was to become Bank of New England), Patriot Bank, Chase Commercial and USTrust. Paul has served on the Board of Directors for the Business Development Corporation for twenty years, and is also a Director at Edgewater Technology Corp., a New England-based consulting company. Paul's educational background includes a Bachelor of Science degree from Boston College.

Paul have worked together in Asset-Based Lending since they met at Patriot Bank over twenty years ago, in 1986. David is an active member of the Commercial Finance Association (CFA), the Turnaround Management Association (TMA) and the Association for Corporate Growth (ACG). ## Wilmington Library Notes

by Christina Stewart

Mystery Books

A Vital Component of the Town Common

Behind the library's circulation desk, there are four photographs depicting Wilmington's Town Common in winter, spring, summer and fall. These beautiful photographs not only add color and warmth to the library, they provide a sense of the library's connection to the Town Common. The following statement from the Town of Wilmington Master Plan 2001 further illustrates this connection: The Town Library is a vital component of the Town Common area, because it serves all Wilmington residents. In Wilmington, as in many towns, the library acts as an indoor "Commons," where residents can meet and interact, both formally and informally.

Thanks to the Wilmington Arts Council for purchasing these photographs taken by photographer Alex Rodeski.

The Mystery Collection

The library recently integrated its mystery books with its general fiction books. Previously the mystery genre books were shelved in a separate area. The integration of both genres was done for a number of reasons. Since some authors (Elizabeth Peters and early books by Robert Parker) write in both genres, patrons are now able to browse the shelves and see all the books available by that author. Also, the question of what books are considered mystery and what books are not is often debated by both patrons and catalogers. Some consider suspense titles with a "who done it" story line to be mysteries, while others do not. The mystery labels on the spines of the books will help our mystery readers find the books they want to read and possibly discover new titles nearby.

Price It!

If you are interested in selling or buying a collectible on eBay or at an auction, check Price It! - a new subscription database now available on the library's web site. Information on market value is taken from Ebay, TIAS, and online and land based auction sites. The database also includes helpful articles on antiques and collectibles, such as, hiring an appraiser, restoring crystal and glassware, and Christmas collectibles. To access this database, go to www.wilmlibrary.org and click on Research Databases on the toolbar. If you want to access the database from home, you will need your Wilmington library card.

Children's Programs Star Mag Meeting

Refreshments will be served and a door prize, provided by the Friends of the Library, will be awarded.

This session is intended for high school students at all grade levels but particularly for juniors and seniors. Parents are welcome to attend. Please register by calling 978-694-2098 or stop into the

Teen Zone. Color Your World with Pastels!

Artist Sharon Morley will lead a workshop on how to use pastels and how to care for them. Working at their own pace, with emphasis on originality and creativity, students will be guided from basic composition through a completed painting. Call 978-694-2098 to register for this workshop beginning Thursday, October 4. Class is limited to 20 teens and/or adults. Funded by the Massachusetts Cultural Council.

Playaway Audiobooks

If enjoy listening to audio books, check out the library's collection of playaways. A playaway is the first self-playing digital audio book that is small enough to fit into the palm of your hand. It looks like an MP3 player. The playaway requires little technical knowledge to operate and comes with easy instructions. Headphones and one AAA battery are required for operation, but for convenience, these items will be sold at the circulation desk for a nominal amount.

Massachusetts State Parks Pass

The Wilmington Memorial Library has available for borrowing two parking passes valid for free parking at any state park in Massachusetts. Library patrons may borrow the pass on either Saturday or Sunday and explore over 449,000 acres of land and 440 parks. In the Boston area, these include Breakheart Reservation, Lynn Shores Reservation, Mystic River Reservation, Middlesex Fells Reservation, Beaver Brook Reservation and many more. ## Tewksbury Police are on the job

TEWKSBURY - During this past week the Tewksbury Detective Division arrested 6 suspects after several investigations.

Breaking and entering

The state is being plagued by motor vehicle breaks. This week the detective bureau made an arrest of Amanda Hill (24 years old, 950 Essex Street, Lowell). Miss Hill was apprehended with merchandise taken from a motor vehicle at the Motel 6. She was arrested and charged with Breaking and Entering into a vehicle, and disorderly conduct. Johanen Edward (age 61, Mount Joy Road, Tewksbury) who was with Amanda Hill was also arrested for an outstanding Warrant.

Drugs:

The Tewksbury Police Department continues to try to stop the flow of illegal drugs into our community. Thanks to several residences who called our drug tip hot line, the criminal bureau was able to set up surveillance at 16 County Road. After weeks of surveillance, the Detective bureau arrested April McKenzie (43 years old), who resides at this address. April was arrested on a warrant for Possession with the Intent to Distribute Class B (Cocaine). A warrant was also issued for another party who resides in Lawrence (September 27, 2007).

Also Arrested this week for Narcotics violations were:

Melody Spooner (25 years old) Possession of Class D (Marijuana) (September 30, 2007) Craig Landry (28 years old) Possession of Class D (Marijuana) (September 28, 2007)

Copper Wire Theft:

This is another crime which is becoming very popular throughout the state. Many people who are addicted to narcotics like to steal copper wire from new developments, utilities service yards, and junkyards. There have been several thefts from utility yards in Tewksbury in the past three weeks. Acting from several confidential sources, the Detective Division arrested Michael Harmon on September 28, 2007. Mr. Harmon was arrested on an outstanding warrant (Motor Vehicle charges) and Possession of Burglary Tools, and Receiving Stolen Property over $250. Mr. Harmon was apprehended with a set of bolt cutters, and several different special tools to assist him with this type of crime. Two stolen chainsaws were recovered and positively identified by the victims of the copper wire theft.

Workforce training grant screenprint

Dow Industries of Wilmington, in partnership with Middlesex Community College, has been awarded a workforce Training Grant in the amount of $8060.00. The grant is being used to provide Workplace English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL). The Workforce Training Fund Grant, financed entirely through Massachusetts's employers, provides resources and matching funds to Massachusetts businesses for the purpose of training current or newly hired employees. The goal is to help improve employee skills and foster the economic growth of the Commonwealth's businesses. The state of Massachusetts allocates 21 million dollars annually to Massachusetts's employers for various work-related trainings. Individual grants may range from two thousand to one million dollars per application.

Dow Industries and their sister company Screenprint/Dow, employ a culturally diverse workforce. Their employee-participants in this specific training have emigrated from other countries, including the Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Guatemala, and Puerto Rico. These employees are both focused and enthusiastic, as they take this opportunity to improve their "on-the-job" English speaking, reading, writing and problem solving skills. MCC's (ESOL) instructor, Janet Piracha, works with internal documents, company newsletters, workplace vocabulary and work-related problem solving techniques as a foundation for English language acquisition.

Screenprint/Dow employee, Johanna Polanco, is attending the class and gives a lot of credit to her instructor and the format of the class for building her confidence. She is now communicating directly with her supervisor instead of being dependent on a third party to translate her procedural directives into Spanish. Johanna is also speaking more English with her co-workers. She smiled when she mentioned that her ten-year-old daughter has noticed how much her English has improved.

Frank Sullivan, Human Resource Manager at Dow Industries and Screenprint/Dow coordinates the program for both companies, in partnership with Audrey Nahabedian, Program Manager for Business and Industry Programs at MCC. Sullivan is most supportive of the program. He has seen measurable progress in the participating employee's reading and communication skills. Developing these work-related skills has improved the efficiency and the performance of their job functions and has boosted employee confidence in maintaining and actively investing in product quality control. This, in turn, translates to the on-time delivery of quality products, at competitive prices, enhancing the mission at both companies of exceeding customer expectations.

Currently, and in the past, MCC Business and Industry Program has been instrumental in obtaining training funds for local companies. Training agendas awarded may range from non-credit basic skills, such as (ESOL) basic workplace reading, writing, math and computer, and customer service skills, as well as management and supervisor leadership skills, to manufacturing techniques, such as Blueprint Reading, Sigma Six and Lean Manufacturing.

Interested Massachusetts companies, seeking more information about the Workforce Training Grant or MCC's Business and Industry Programs, may contact Audrey Nahabedian at 978-656-3136.

precincts and all of Tewksbury. It seemed likely that Tewksbury would control the seat.

It didn't work out that way. In the 1978 race, two men from Tewksbury ran, Paul Sullivan and Frank Antonelli. There was Sullivan 1629.

Miceli has always worked hard for constituents in both towns, and he has a very solid base. This summer, when he ran for Congress, he was not a resident of the Congressional district. He lives in Wilmington, which is not part of the Fifth District. He had much less money in his campaign than any other candidate, but he still carried Tewksbury. And a few voters showed up at the polls in Wilmington, hoping to vote for him, not realizing there was no election in Wilmington, which is in the Seventh District.

Miceli has been a "bring home the bacon" representative in both towns, securing state funding for countless projects. Most noteworthy in Wilmington was the conversion of the Buzzell School into a senior citizen's center. Recently he secured state funding for the town's purchase of the 325-year old Butters farmhouse.

He has also tackled with the reconstruction of Route 129/38, a project which is finally nearing completion. This included the rebuilding of the Burlington Avenue bridge. Another road project long in the making was the reconstruction of the Route 93/125 interchange, which is also nearing completion.

He is especially proud of the Town Forest in Wilmington, which he initiated as a selectman, and then supported with funding as a legislator. It is the largest parcel of open space in the town, he said.

In Tewksbury, he has been tremendously active. He worked very hard to bring about the renovation of the town center. He also secured $600,000 for the senior center. Recently, with the town in dire financial straits, he secured a teachers' salary deferral. That deferral enabled the Town to balance its fiscal year 2008 budget without initiating a trash fee.

The Micelis were celebrating when Jim won the primary back in 1977. In front are Jim, Jr. and Tina. Jean Miceli is at left, then Jim, daughter Hope, and Jim's mother, Louise. Jim Miceli became a Democrat.

Then on May 16, 1977, Rep. Fred Cain died. He had been a solid fixture in the State House for 13 years. Soon thereafter, a field of four candidates evolved: Bob Cain, Kevin McKelvey, Tom Marden and Jim Miceli, all running as Democrats. The district included all of Wilmington and two precincts in Billerica.

Many people expected Cain's son Jimmy to run for the seat. He had frequently driven his father on political business. But Jimmy stepped aside and his brother Bob ran.

The primary was held on the last day of July, and Miceli won, 1573 to Cain's 1313.

The final election was set for August 28, and there was no Republican on the ballot. Then Bob Cain announced he would run on stickers. Another sticker candidate emerged, too. Bernard Mahoney announced he was running to stand up for senior citizens. His wife was a well-known realtor in North Wilmington.

When the smoke cleared, Cain had gained six votes, making his Wilmington total 1319, plus 103 in Billerica. Bernie Mahoney had three. And Jim Miceli had 2375 votes in Wilmington, plus 250 in Billerica. He picked up some 600 votes over the primary.

Miceli was sworn in two weeks later by Lt. Gov. Tom O'Neill. He was welcomed by House Majority Leader

Then Keverian said, "I'm afraid I've just redistricted you out of existence."

The House was undergoing redistricting that year, and the prospects did not look good for Wilmington having its own rep. The new district would be made up of five of Wilmington's six no Republican candidate, so the only contest was in the primary. The two men split the Tewksbury vote, and Miceli won, even topping the combined total for the two Tewksbury candidates by four votes. The totals were Miceli 3459, Antonelli 1826 and in Peabody.

Wahr says the Tewksbury project will take a "regional approach" and not try to reach out to customers more than ten miles away. As such, the scope of the project will reduce the traffic impact on the interchange.

Wahr told reporters that the new project would likely contain cinemas, an unspecified sports component as well as office space and residential housing. Including the latter will require rezoning the site, which does not currently permit residences.

Tentatively scheduled to appear before the Tewksbury Board of Selectmen on October 23, Simon representatives will present conceptual designs further outlining the developer's vision. The overall effect will be more consistent with the Cecil Group concept of the greater Lowell Junction interchange area than previous plans for a large mall.

During the Tri-Town Task Force meeting, the R.J. Kelly Company presented conceptual designs for the Lowell Junction Mixed-Use Center on its parcel of land, which is located on the east side of Interstate 93 (the Perkins property is located on the west side). The Kelly Site, located in both Tewksbury and Andover, would incorporate office space, residential space, retail and restaurants all with a timeless design and an eye toward maximizing economic development opportunities while "embracing the natural resources of the site."

The residential component would offer 1,000-square foot units geared toward empty nesters or recent college graduates and a nominal impact on schools. Brothers Brandon and Scott Kelly drew architectural inspiration from Rowes Wharf in Boston, City Place in West Palm Beach, Florida, and the Hays Galleria in London.

The mixed-use piece holds 250,000 square feet of space, with 75,000 for retail on the ground level and another 155,000 square feet in housing. An adjacent office building would offer 200,000 square feet of office space. A 30,000 square foot amenity retail building, or hotel and conference center may be built on the site, further away from the mixed-used center. Kelly also proposed another 30,000 square feet for a "gateway retail" space to be located at the entrance to the complex, across from a new proposed commuter rail stop.

The Tewksbury and Andover town line runs through the center of the Kelly property's proposed mixed-use area, thus both towns would benefit in revenue and improved property valuations from the development. The small portion of the Kelly property that lies in Wilmington consists primarily of wetlands and cannot be developed.

The proposed buildings are three to four stories with parking around and underneath and no more than 65-feet high. R.J. Kelly expects that the site will cost at least $200 million to develop so the company plans to "create something monumental."

The site has several challenges for developers including wetlands, major power lines, and access to public transportation. The project will take between two and 10 years to build through phases, depending on the market and lending sources once construction proceeds. The company will consider building the entire project simultaneously if financially feasible. Ultimately, the Kelly brothers want to be able to open the doors at the same time the interchange is complete.

"We will have to give companies an extremely compelling reason" for moving to the R.J. Kelly Site, Brandon Kelly explained to the Crier. "It has to be a destination center."

The plan will continue to move forward and faces many hurdles and forums for public input from local planning board meetings to Department of Environmental Protection reviews and much more.

A makeover for the Foley Barn

Dovetail construction was widely used in the original construction of the Foley Farm's barn on West Street in Wilmington. Note how one piece of wood fits inside the other. back section of the barn to collapse," said Foley. "We didn't see it happen but we got a call from our neighbor who said the barn was down."

"The original blacksmith section of the barn held up but the newer portion that my grandfather built collapsed. I guess my grandfather was about as good a carpenter as my father and I were," Foley joked.

Foley found a skilled carpenter in his friend Mike Bodnar, a lifelong resident of Wilmington. Together, they have been restoring the barn part-time over the last six years. Both men agreed that it has not been an easy task, but rather a labor of love.

"It's been a lot of work," admitted Bodnar. "Every tool I own has been used on this job."

"We've been lucky to have friends come over and help when they can," added Foley. "Whenever we have some heavy lifting to do, our friends come over and we put them to work. Two of them are no longer with us today."

Bodnar is no novice to barn building, and counts the Foley barn as the sixth one he's built and/or restored over the years. Armed with a collection of antique chisels, Bodnar is committed to preserving the integrity of the historical property.

"When you look at the skeleton of the barn, it looks like a Christmas tree," said Bodnar referring to the intricate placement of beams, columns, scarf joints, bracing and mortises.

"We didn't have a plan to work from, but we studied the barn closely and did our best to copy it while also adding bracing to make it stronger."

Prior to the 2001 collapse, the barn had a 10 percent list which caused it to lean to one side. "There wasn't enough bracing in the old barn," claimed Bodnar.

"When we rebuilt the barn this time around, we added bottom bracing. Previously, beams were only supported by braces on the top. Bottom braces add structural soundness," explained Foley.

In addition to the bracing, Bodnar and Foley have added other features including a cupola offering 360-degree views from its windows atop the barn, and concrete was used to fortify the fieldstone foundation.

The restoration process requires painstaking attention to detail such as chiseling mortise to fit wooden beams together. Like pieces of a wooden puzzle, the mortise needs to fit perfectly in order to maintain its strength.

"Sometimes the only way to get things done is to use chisels," said Bodnar. "Those tool-makers of old really knew how to temper steel. Working with chisels is more than just keeping with tradition; it's the way it needs to be done to work properly."

"When you use tools like chisels and build with mortises, it's more authentic," said Dorothy Foley. "It's like cooking. That's why I cook from scratch, it's more authentic."

Once the restoration is completed, the barn will be used primarily for the mum and honey business. It will also offer arts and crafts and potentially some antique furniture that has been collected through the family for generations.

The Foleys have never entertained the thought of selling the property. Instead, they cherish the history and embrace the way of life.

"It's a sense of taste," said Dorothy. "I like antiques."

"It's a lifestyle that Dorothy and I want," added Larry. "I'm 67 and this is how I want to spend my life."

Piazza adds, "We welcome participation by local businesses as there is still time to get involved and feel good about helping a worthy cause like Local Heroes, Inc."

Piazza is so committed to the Wilmington community that he will soon be building a house in town for he and his family.

"Our facility offers the convenience of working out - on their time frame - to members, like doctors, nurses, police officers, firemen, EMT workers, restaurant employees, 2nd and 3rd shift workers, traveling salespeople, late sleepers, and early risers. Some parents like to exercise as early as 4:00 a.m. so they get back home in time to send their children to school, while others prefer to work out late in the evening when their children are bed" said Piazza.

Since Anytime Fitness is always open, the 24 hr. digital security system is about as important to members as the state-of-the-art cardiovascular and strength equipment is.

"Our priority is to provide the safest facility possible at any time of the day," Piazza said. "We have digital security cameras monitoring exercise areas and the parking lot. We also have contact alarms, remote surveillance and a tail-gating system in place for added security. Other clubs cannot promise this level of safety even when fully staffed. The main purpose of the closed circuit television is for the member's safety and peace of mind. Because of all these safeguards, I feel quite comfortable having my wife workout at odd hours in our facility."

"Our First Alert system with emergency buttons and necklaces throughout the club is for members who need to contact emergency services. We're like a seat belt. We're not going to prevent every accident but hopefully it will keep you safer," said Piazza.

Anytime Fitness in Wilmington has partnered up with Star Trac to be the exclusive showcase for their fitness equipment and has their newest line of strength and cardiovascular equipment. Star Trac equipment has been designing equipment since the 70's and is a proven leader in the fitness industry.

"Our goal is to make people healthy," Piazza said. "By empowering and educating our members, we are enabling them to carry out their fitness objectives. It's extremely important to me to be an onsite, hands-on owner and to have top-notch personnel to support, motivate, answer questions and develop safe and efficient programs to help individuals meet their goals. Piazza brings a great deal of experience to the table. He started working out himself when he was about 10-years old and, he has been working as a professional trainer for the last 12 years.

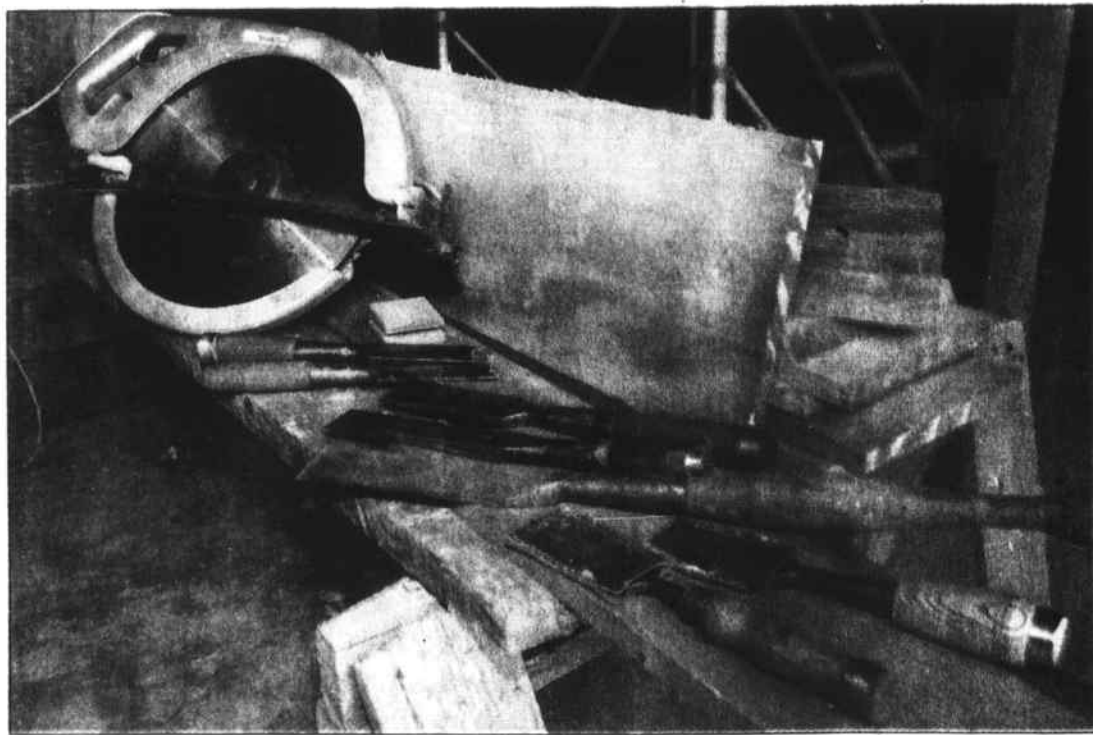

"We offer a welcoming and clean environment to everyone, regardless of their fitness level or ability," Piazza said. "We also work with corporations of any size to create customized wellness programs for employees and we offer discounts for companies and town employees."

Third annual road race a complete success

Over 150 runners hit the streets

By JENNIFER PETINGE
Sports Correspondent

While the majority of residents in Wilmington were enjoying a lazy Sunday, complete with a morning paper and a treat from one of the local Dunkin' Donuts, RMA Fitness Center was buzzing with activity as 157 runners flooded the streets of Wilmington as part of the third annual Wilmington Happy Birthday Road Race.

Sponsored by a variety of local businesses, the events main attractions were the 5K road race and the half-marathon. Organized by Tom Pazyra, Laura Ahern and Denise Gentile, the race has spawned quite a following since its initial run three years ago.

"Three years ago was the 275th birthday of the town," explains Pazyra. "Jack Cushing had a year long thing going and I thought I would add a road race to that."

The idea has certainly been successful, as this year's event featured a total of 157 runners.

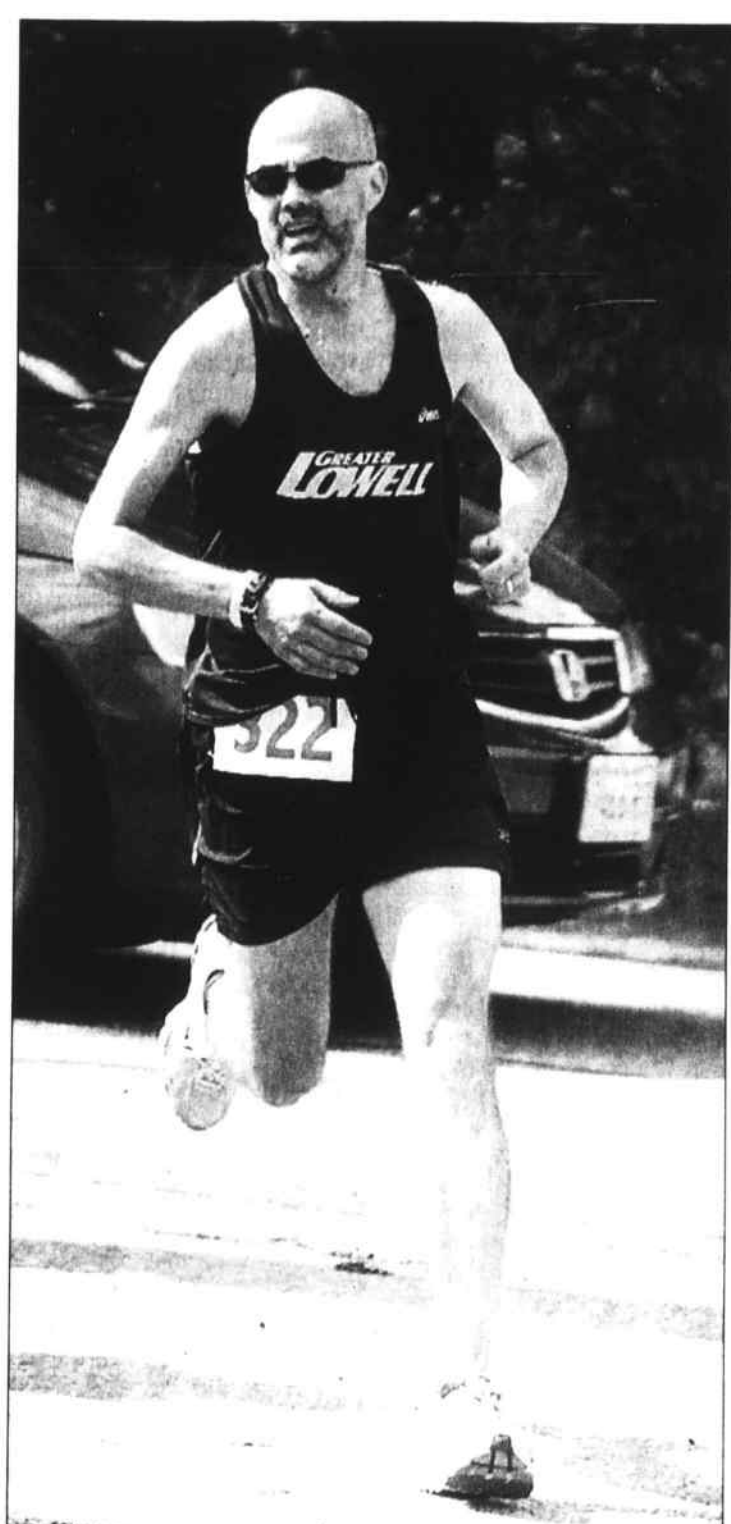

"The race supports scholarships for high school students and other local charities," said Ahern. "We've raced close to seven or eight thousand dollars these past few years."

Ahern, Gentile, and Pazyra credit local volunteers and businesses for the race's success. "Without the sponsors," says Ahern, "we don't do it." Added Pazyra, "It's the three of us and the sponsors."

All who attended the race can attest to its family appeal. The beginning of the race was marked by an endearing performance of the National Anthem. Throughout the festivities, local cheerleaders from Pop Warner and East Elite entertained the crowd and cheered on the runners. The availability of food and beverages was also a major plus. RMA supplied coffee and bagels, while Elia's offered up

Chandonnet, Walsh take home half marathon titles

By JENNIFER PETINGE
Sports Correspondent

The 5K had finished and the crowd was watching in anticipation of the half marathon runners. Finally, an hour and twenty minutes after the initial start of the race, Andy Chandonnet triumphantly crossed the finish line. With a time of 1:21:16.3, Chandonnet finished a good two minutes before the next runner crossed the line as the winner of Wilmington's third annual Happy Birthday Road Race.

"I've been running for about 35 years," said Chandonnet. "It's a great feeling. I love being outdoors. It's just a high, a running high. It's a great feeling you've accomplished something."

Chandonnet points out that this was his "first time running this marathon." "I run a lot of USATF grand prix races. I'm getting ready to run the Cape Code Marathon right now."

Chandonnet heard about our local road race in the newspaper. "My friends had been discussing it, too," said Chandonnet. "It's a good chance to get a long distance run in."

Chandonnet seems eager to be able to run the course again next year. "It's a great course," says Chandonnet. "Obviously, finishing first, it'd be great to come back and do it again next year."

On the women's side of things, Suzy Walsh came in to the finish line surrounded by cheers and family. "I've been running for 20 years," said Walsh. "I like meeting new people and the competitive aspect."

A resident of Wilmington, Walsh came in at 1:32:18.8. An avid runner, Walsh has also participated in the Falmouth Road Race and the Tufts 10 K.

"Yes, I definitely want to race next year," said Walsh.

bananas and oranges for the runners. An ice cream cart and candy stand rounded out the choices. Kids also enjoyed a face painting stand, as well as the beach balls that were being handed out.

The runners were off a bit after 10:00 am. For the next 20 minutes, the crowd sat in anticipation of the 5K runners who would be returning soon. First to cross the finish line was Andrew Tumminelli, a Woburn resident and cross country runner on Woburn High's team.

Crossing the line at 19:54.1, Tumminelli was immediately followed by Christopher DiCecca of Wilmington at 20:31.6. Rounding out the top three men was Jon O'Sullivan, who came in at 22:27.9. The top finisher on the women's side for the 5K was Traci Mederio, running a cool 23:48.5. She was followed by Amy Fisher (24:14.9) and Lauren Wickwire (25:53.3) both from Wilmington.

Andy Chandonnet was the first to cross the finish line for the 13.1 mile half-marathon.

Finishing at a time of 1:21:16.3, Chandonnet finished just ahead of Joe Wallerstein (1:23:26.4) and Mark Barrett (1:26:32.5). Suzy Walsh, a former Bentley College star, was lead the women in the marathon, finishing at 1:32:18.8. Avril Silverman and Krista Schepanovsky followed behind Walsh with times of 1:40:26.5 and 1:43:09.7, respectively.

Asked if Wilmington can hope to enjoy the event next year, Pazyra replied,

"We're going to try to keep it going." Ahern also added that the committee would love more community involvement. "We'd love anyone interested to be on the board," said Ahern. Denise Gentile readily agrees with both of her partners. "Each year we hope we're growing more," said Gentile. "Each year we'll get bigger and better."

WHS Varsity Soccer Round-Up

Girls take two, boys remain unbeaten

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

After watching a very talented Newburyport team pump six goals against them on their own turf more than a week ago, the Wilmington High girls soccer team came back very strong this week defeating both North Reading, 2-0, and Amesbury, 3-1, pushing their record to 3-3-2 as the team just about reaches the first half mark.

Despite being a pretty young team, the Wildcats continue to progress, especially giving up just one goal in the past two games.

"The new players on the team are starting to come into their own," said head coach Sue Hendee. "The players who were on the varsity team last year coming back, I expected a lot out of them and they are doing very well. But the first year varsity players are starting to step up. Ally Robbins appears to be getting stronger, Steph Benson is doing some good things offensively and Lisa Booker has had some good scoring opportunities."

One player who previously had a number of scoring chances but just couldn't cash in was Brittany McLaughlin. But that changed when she scored two of the team's goals against Amesbury.

"I'm glad Brittany finally got one in the books," said Hendee. "She had a lot of opportunities and it was good to see her get a couple. Early in the season we relied on Katie to score the goals and she came through. Now we're getting a much more balanced scoring attack and that's what I'm most pleased with because it was a big concern of mine heading into the season."

In the win over North Reading, Charlotte Jensen scored the first goal coming on a direct kick. She then assisted on the second goal, setting up Kaitlin Souza.

"It was a pretty even game actually," said Hendee. "I thought we had the better opportunities to score. We controlled the first half and they took some control in the second half but overall it was a pretty good win for us."

After several days off, the Wildcats again were on the road, this time traveling to Amesbury. McLaughlin scored two of the goals, including the much needed insurance goal with three minutes to go on a pass from Liz Chin. Colleen Kennedy had the other tally for the 'Cats.

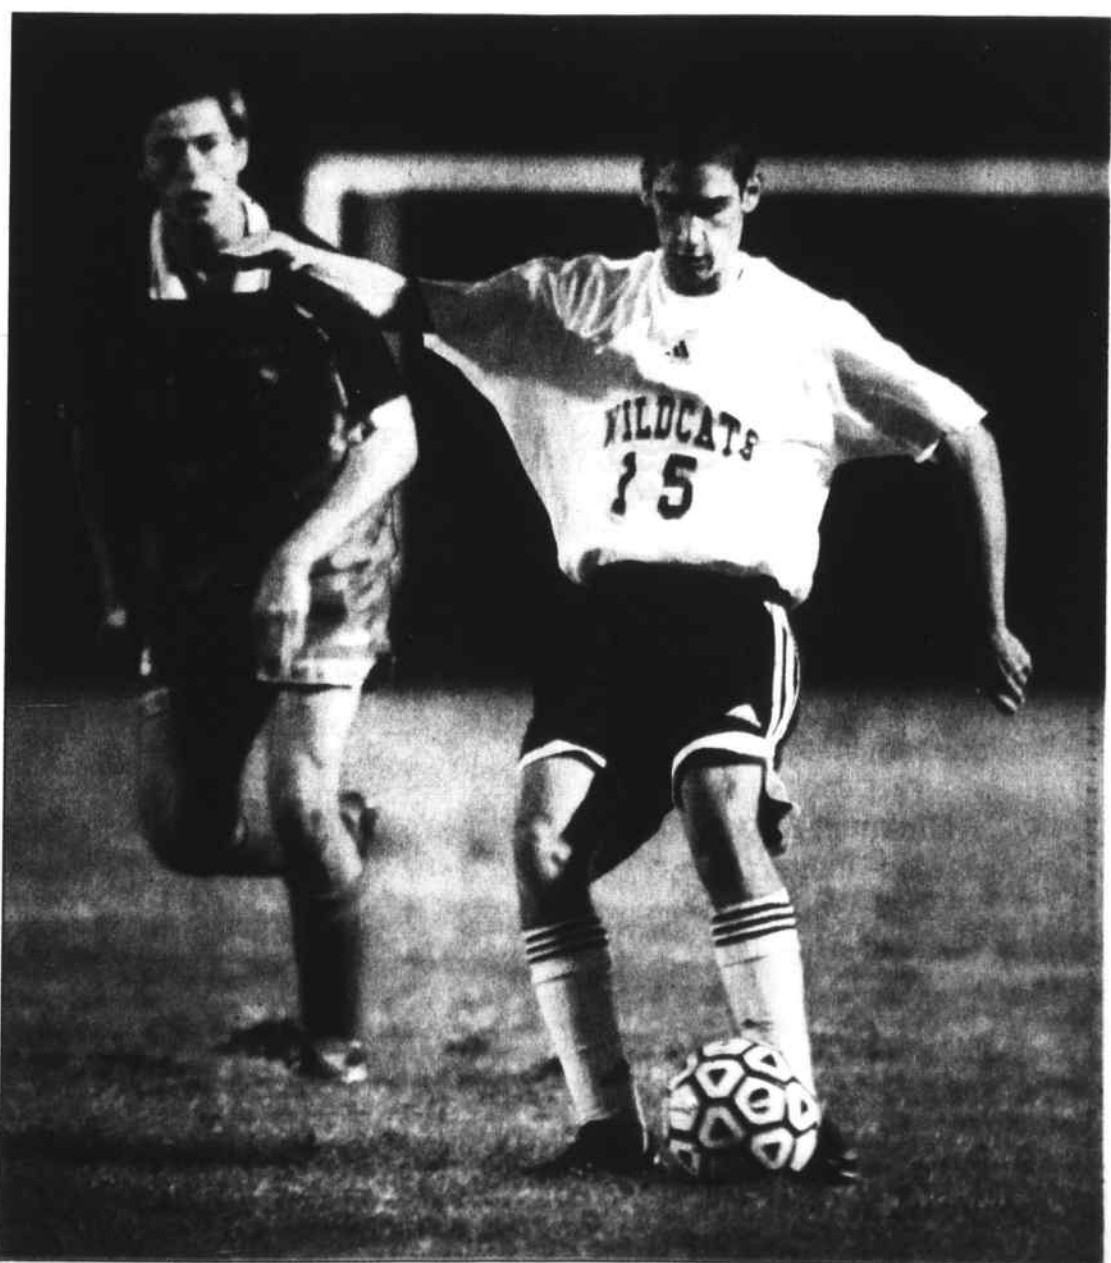

"We clearly carried possession and had much more offensive chances," said Hendee. "We outshot them 18-4."

Keeper Leah Potcner made three saves in the win against Amesbury, after making 12 against North Reading.

Wilmington faced Hamilton-Wenham at home on Wednesday night with results not known as of presstime. On Friday afternoon, the 'Cats host Triton at the Shawsheen School beginning at 3:45 pm. After that the 'Cats are on the road for their next three with trips to Manchester-Essex, Pentucket and Tewksbury.

Wilmington Pop Warner Round-Up

Led by a strong defensive effort and touchdowns from three different players, the Wilmington's D1 Wildcats brought home their fourth straight win of the season Sunday over the Melrose Apache, 21-0.

The game started with a Wilmington fumble. The team, so accustomed to playing with confidence from a position of strength, was scrambling from the beginning. It took some time for the boys to regroup, but they showed their character by staying in the game, digging deep and focusing on the basics.

The Wildcat defensive end tandem of Connor Bennett and Cullen Maroney contained the outside running game and forced the Apache to run into the teeth of the Wildcat defense. Stopping all advances inside were Cody Wile, Peter Daley, Alex Hiltz and Michael Carrocino.

On the first offensive possession, Quarterback Ryan Carrocino orchestrated a long drive starting at his own 28 yard line. Shaughn Hiltz rushed for a 15-yard gain off right tackle as a result of a key block by Nick Cimaglia. Next, Matt Penney swept around the left side through a hole opened by a Robert Fullerton block.

Then Carrocino threw a short pass over the middle to Dylan Masiello. After the catch, Masiello ran another 10 yards carrying the majority of the Apache defense on his back. The drive stalled at the Melrose 25-yard line and the Wildcat defense returned to the field.

Wilmington's defense led by John Pasquariello, Andrew Murray and Johnny Reynolds held the Apache to negative yards on their next possession and the Wildcats took over on downs at the Melrose 12-yard line.

The Wildcats could smell the end zone. The game's first touchdown was scored by Shaughn Hiltz, who powered the ball around the right side behind pulling guard Ryan Broderick's lead blocking.

Wilmington attempted to kick the 2-point conversion but the snap was high. An alert Ryan Carrocino managed to field the snap and run around the left side to score a 1-point conversion. Wilmington led at the half 7-0.

The second half started with the Wildcat defense keeping the Melrose offense in check. Charles Mingella's play was critical in controlling the defensive line of scrimmage. Tommy Simmons, Zach Toto and Tommy Magee hampered the Melrose passing game by constantly flushing the Apache quarterback out of the pocket.

Once the Wildcats regained the ball, the offensive line went to work. Anchored by Michael Amato and Michael Daly, the offensive line enabled the Wildcats to use their running game effectively.

Alternating short runs up the middle James O'Regan, Johnny Reynolds, and Shaughn Hiltz moved the ball down the field from their own 47-yard line to the Melrose 3-yard line. Ryan Carrocino then scored on a quarterback sneak behind the punishing run blocking of Ryan Adams and Connor Bennett. The Wildcat 2-point conversion kick was blocked.

The fourth quarter saw the Wildcats put together another long scoring drive from their own 45 yard line. Using their strong running game they moved the ball to the 22-yard line. Matt Penney had an explosive run off right tackle and then eluded three Melrose defenders to score Wilmington's third touchdown.

Kevin Keane, who played a fine game at defensive end, kicked the successful 2-point conversion.

Wilmington defense remained strong in the fourth quarter keeping Melrose off the scoreboard by stopping both the pass and run. Andrew Vellucci stepped up from his defensive tackle position and almost intercepted a Melrose pass. Johnny Gallasso, a defensive standout the whole game, made multiple open field tackles.

Final score: Wilmington 21 - Melrose 0. Hard work, good coaching and determination lead Wilmington to victory.

Pop Warner D 2

Wilmington Pop Warner's D-2 team came away with the victory on the last play of the game with a great touchdown reception to win the game 19-18. This was a hard fought victory for Wilmington with non-stop action.

Wilmington had a strong offensive front led by linemen Antonio Larffarello, Andy Lesperance, Mike Feyler, Dan Feyler, Matt Woods, Nathaniel Vince, Pat Finn, Pat Keough, Conor Bailey, Josh Bryant and Alex Popa.

Wilmington's backfield led by quarterback Tim Benoit and running backs Kyle Callahan, Brian Neal, Joey Pineau and Ryan Colangelo had a great game running the ball and blocking for each other. Some nice receiving by Joe Hydorn helped spread the offense around.

Waltham's offense was held back by a tremendous defense played by Jeremy Frost, Darrin Cushing, Mason Oullette, Jonathan Roberts, Liam Soye, Mike Russo, Robert Connors, Nick Brown and Jesadakorn Saenchandi.

An impressive coaching job was performed by Head Coach Dave Feyler and assistants Robbie Gillis, Mike Russo, Verne Hydorn and Paul Neal.

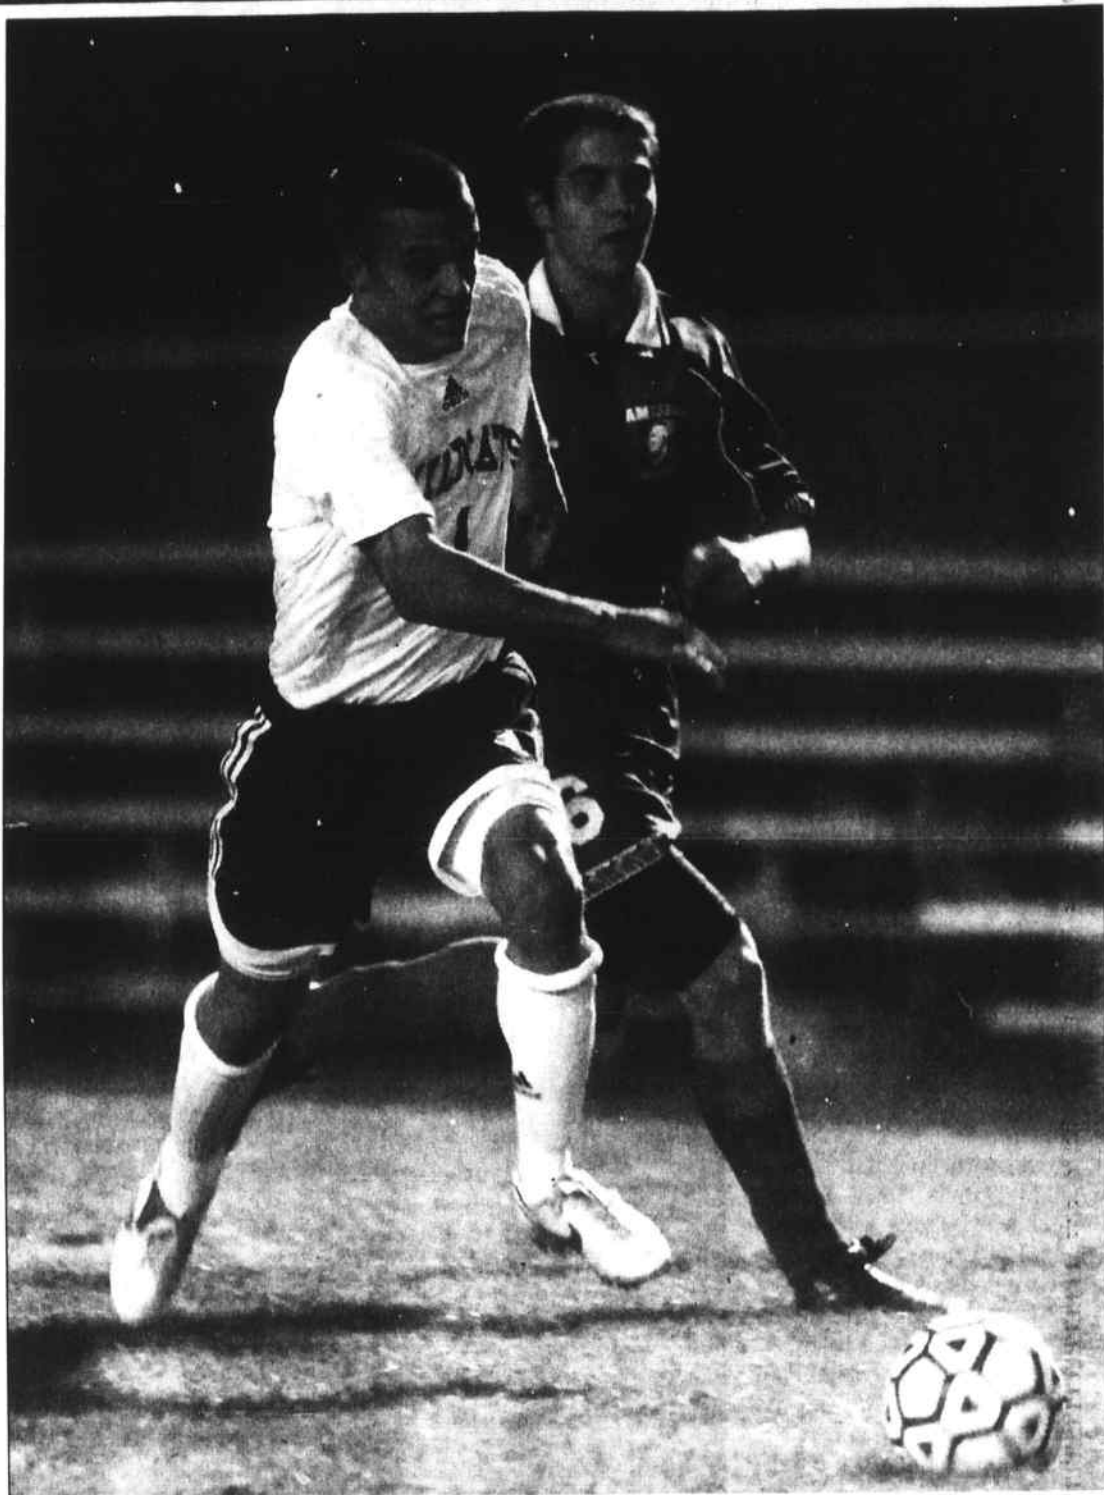

Wilmington's D-2 team would like to thank all the parents and fans for their support.

Pop Warner E1

Wilmington's E-1 Pop Warner team took on Melrose on Sunday at the Glen Road field. The offense was led by running backs Justin Collins, who rushed for 79 yards, and Kyle Penney, who ran hard inside all game. Robbie DuCharme had the lone Wildcat touchdown on a seven yard run.

Tommy Lawrenson and Michael DuCharme threw key blocks on the touchdown run. The Cats got strong offensive line play all day from Jonathon Simmons, Brandon Belmonte, Graham Smith, Sam Jennings, Tyler DeJesus and John Maga. Wilmington's defense was anchored in the middle by Michael Daley, Tom Robarge and Matt Blair. The E-1 Cats also received some help on the outside by Ryan Williams and DeJesus.

The Coaches and players would also like to thank the E Team Cheerleaders for another great job. The E-1 Wildcats hope to come out strong when they travel to Burlington next week.

Boys soccer team remains unbeaten

Wildcats kept up their unbeaten streak with a scoreless tie against North Reading last Thursday afternoon at the North Intermediate, before defeating Amesbury, 4-1, on Monday night putting the team's record to 5-0-1.

In the win against Amesbury, Carlton Lentini was the lone player with multiple points as he had a goal and an assist. Jonathan Spurr, Jason Pereira and Mike Condell each had a goal, while, Matt Figueiredo and Andrew Goosens had one assist each. Vinny Papageorgiou made seven saves in the net before coming out with 15 minutes to go for back-up Craig Bush, who made three stops.

Last Thursday, Wilmington outshot North Reading, 16-5, but came away with nothing. The 'Cats missed out on several big chances to find the back of the net, only to leave the North Intermediate School with its egg basket empty.

"It wasn't a case of effort, because I thought we were the better team but I think this was a case of squandering your opportunities," said head coach Steve Scanlon. "You get just so many in a game and the job of your attackers is to put the ball in the net. The defense did their job, but we missed a couple of point blank scoring opportunities. (The North Reading keeper) made two pretty decent saves, but I thought it was a pretty good game for us but we just make the most of our chances."

Scanlon, who has coached a team to a state championship title, has said all along how much talent this year's team has. But talent can only take a team so far - a team needs a little bit more than that.

"If you wanna go from being a good team to a great team, you play every game, from the start to the finish and have a sense of urgency," he said. "It took us a few minutes to get into this game and the other night in Newburyport, we didn't play for the first 25 minutes of the game. Things can happen during that time and you can get into trouble.

"It's not like we didn't play good (on Thursday) because we hustled after stuff, we competed for balls but offensively in the 18' yard box, we don't have too many players who will compete for a head ball. What more can our defenders do (with four straight shut outs?). You need attackers to compete for head balls inside the '18 and to put their scoring chances away."

JJ Polcari, Lentini, Nick Farnsworth all played very well in front of Papageorgiou, who made all five saves to record his, and the team's fourth straight shut out.

Wilmington was on the road against Hamilton-Wenham on Wednesday with results not known as of presstime, before taking a bus trip to Triton Regional on Friday. The 'Cats return home to face Manchester-Essex on Monday afternoon and then Pentucket next Wednesday night under the lights.

Volleyball and field hockey teams struggling, cross country teams win

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The Wilmington High girls volleyball team lost three straight matches this past week to Masconomet, North Reading and Lexington putting the team's record to 0-6 in the North Shore League and 2-8 overall. Last Tuesday Wilmington collected its second win beating Stoneham, before falling to Masconomet, 3-2, North Reading, 3-0 and Lexington 3-0.

On Monday, the Wildcats fell to Lexington, 25-22, 25-21 and 28-26.

"The girls played hard throughout all three matches," said coach Mark Staffier. "We made a couple of careless errors on the floor and missed a few serves which could have made the difference in the games. Overall I was pleased with their consistent hard work and play."

Before Monday's loss, it seemed like the 'Cats were struggling to play with overall consistency.

"Against North Reading we played them very close in the first match losing 25-22," said Staffier. "The second and third matches were not as close and the overall effort seemed to be lacking."

Wilmington took two games from Masconomet forcing a fifth and deciding match but were defeated by three points at 15-12.

"That was a tough defeat for the girls," said Staffier. "Again, some inconsistent play in the middle games resulted in a fifth match which we unfortunately fell short in."

Despite the record, Staffier said his team is still fighting the good fight.

"Overall our young team continues to improve on its play everyday," he said. "The girls are working hard everyday and are pushing for a win every single night."

Wilmington took on Lynnfield this past Wednesday afternoon with results not known as of presstime, before having six days off to host Peabody on Tuesday beginning at 4:00 pm.

Cross Country

On a miserable and hot Wednesday afternoon, the Wilmington High boys and girls cross country teams had the tough task of competing, with both teams coming away with wins. The girls improved to 2-4 with a 15-50 win over

The Wilmington High girls cross country team recently won their last meet with Georgetown, and currently stand in with a 2-4 overall record. (JoeBrownphotos.com)

Georgetown, while the boys collected their first win with a 22-33 score over the Royals.

"It was a terrible day to run," said coach Tom Bradley. "So the times are not worth much with the weather."

The boys team was led by Tom Valente, Andrew Marra and Ed Silva. They were the top three overall finishers of the race. Valente, a sophomore came in at 18:28, followed by Marra who was 11 seconds behind at 18:39 and Silva and Jim DiNuccio rounded out the 'Cats top five finishers. Jeff Kannally finished seventh and Bradley said "that was his best effort to date."

On the girls side, junior

Natalie Russo was the top performer coming in at 21:25, followed by Ali Lyman, Nikki Sirignano, Kerry Spry, Lisa Hitchins, Ivy Co and Kristi Adley, who finished third through seventh as the Wildcats pulled off a complete sweep in the victory. According to Bradley, over the past 11 years Sirignano owns Wilmington's fourth best time and Lyman ranks eighth.

The coach also added that two middle school girls are coming along, including Michelle Barnes and Courtney Collins.

Both the boys and girls team went up against Hamilton-Wenham on Wednesday with results not known as of presstime.

Field Hockey

The struggles continue for the WHS Field Hockey team. The Wildcats dropped their last three games losing to Georgetown, 3-0, North Reading, 1-0 and Lynnfield, 5-0 putting the team's overall record to 1-10. Wilmington has been outscored 42-4 this season, and haven't scored in the previous four games.

A trip to Topsfield

Friday can't get here soon enough

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

On Friday night the Wilmington High School football team will enter into very hostile territory, traveling North to Topsfield to take on league rival and undefeated Masconomet in a clash of upper echelon Cape Ann League teams beginning at 7:00 pm.

Wilmington will enter the game with a 4-0 record, defeating Belmont (34-6) in a non-league game, followed by wins over CAL schools Newburyport, 27-17, Lawrence, 47-33, and Amesbury 34-13. Masconomet has had a much different first four game schedule. They first defeated Christ of King High School of New York, 27-13 in the first week. That followed with non more nonleague wins over Oliver Ames, 24-0, and Bishop Fenwick, 35-14. In week four, the Chieftains finally faced a Cape Ann League team defeating Hamilton-Wenham, 29-22.

Both teams enter the game undefeated in the league and this game almost every year all but decides the league title, depending on how Pentucket and North Andover seasons shape up. Masco was the big favorite last year and defeated Wilmington, 21-0. And according to WHS coach Bob Almeida they are once again the favorite for Friday's contest.

"They really don't have a flaw and I'm not going to say that they do," said Almeida. "This is probably one of the strongest Cape Ann League teams we're going to face (since coming here in 1996). They are gigantic up front and good. Their defense is really, really good. The quarterback is really good not only with his arm but he does it with his legs, running the ball. He's that good. The two tailbacks they have are very good, and all of the receivers are very good. They win those 7-on-7 battles all summer long. Their receivers are unbelievable. They have about six different ones who they rotate in and out and throw too and one is as good as the next. Their defense is unbelievable."

Wilmington is 11-2 against Masco under Almeida since 1996. Previous to last year's loss, the 'Cats won in 2003 (20-15), in 2004 (20-14) and in 2005 (20-14) in three terrific games. Last year Wilmington's offense struggled with just 136 total yards of offense. Much of that was due to the injury to quarterback Kyle Moon, who injured his knee on his second throwing attempt. He would later come back to the team during last year's 9-2 season, and is back there this year. Just Friday night he completed 8-of-11 passes for 252 yards and two touchdown passes. Those were his first touchdown strikes since before getting hurt against Masco.

Besides Moon, Wilmington's offense is led by senior running back Ernie Mello, who in just four games has rushed for 852 yards with 16 touchdowns.

Wilmington has outscored its opponents 142-69, while Masco has also put up solid numbers outscoring their opponents 115-49.

"We're going to have to be at our best," said Almeida. "It's really early and we're going to face some other really good teams in the league, but if we're going to have any shot of a title, we're going to have to play at our ultimate best next week because this team is one of the best teams we're going to coach against."

"After the respect factor is gone and we get the kids on the field, we just want to go out and play football. They may be the better team but they still have to beat us. So we're going to go out there to try to win like we always do."

A full Moon overshadows Wildcats 34-13 victory

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

For years Wilmington High School football coach Bob Almeida has spoken about his team being balanced offensively with the pass and the run. No matter who was the quarterback or who the running backs were, he has repeatedly said that he wanted a balanced attack.

Through the first three games of the season, the Wildcats were not balanced as it was the running show of Ernie Mello. Although the senior added two more touchdowns and 93 rushing yards, senior Kyle Moon was immense on Friday night. The away what (Amesbury) was trying to do. They were trying to take Ernie away and I think we really could have gotten the running game established no matter how many guys they put in the box, with number 88 (Stephen Serwon) in the middle of the field playing one guy (Mello) making sure he didn't beat them. I really believe we could have got the running game really on track and done even more but they gave us the pass and Kyle took it. Kyle, the offensive line and the receivers were all unbelievable."

On the second play from scrimmage, Moon took three steps back and fired a perfect this year and it was a huge play for us at the time. (Mike) Manganelli did great and Stewart became a huge factor tonight but the night belonged to Kyle and the defense. The defense really stepped it up and played great tonight and I'm very happy for that group too."

Especially heading into the Masconomet game where every Wilmington player has to be at his best in order for the 'Cats to win, having 252 throwing yards from Moon could go a long way.

"This just gives Kyle a lot of confidence," said Almeida. "This is the guy that we had. He's got a beautiful arm and you saw the beautiful throw he

Running back putting up big numbers

Wilmington High School football historians take note: junior running back Ernie Mello is on a roll that will shatter some records and put him up there with some Wildcats by the name of Esposito, Bowen and Herra.

Some might claim that the competition in the Cape Ann League isn't up to snuff, but this kid has some eye-popping numbers for this early in the season.

Mello notched two more touchdowns in Friday night's 34-13 rout of Amesbury, giving him 16 for the season. His seven touchdowns in a 47-33 win over Lawrence the previous week snaps a school one-game record once held by Jackie Bowen.

In talking with observers of Merrimack Valley Conference football, one common thread is the disappointment that Wilmington didn't choose to remain in the MVC to showcase some recent talent, most notably Joe Herra, Mello and the rock-solid Stewart clan. One veteran fan even went so far as to say that Tewksbury should drop the Wildcats as a Thanksgiving morning opponent. If the Wildcats can play one MVC team and beat them consistently, why can't they play eight or nine MVC teams? Now, if Tewksbury could just defeat Wilmington this Thanksgiving, there might even be more fuel to fire this always-heated discussion.

A sucker born every day

The Red Sox will be tearing up all the old bleacher seats (leaving Ted Williams' last home run seat behind) this winter and selling them to a bunch of baseball get-a-lifers for 550 bucks a pop, further lending credibility to the long-held belief that there is a sucker born every day.

What a great Christmas present. You wake up on Christmas morning, pad down your staircase, and there for all to see under the tree is some green chair that some smelly fat guy with a Red Sox shirt with someone else's name on the back sat in for 20 years.

The only saving grace to this whole thing will be that ALL, not SOME of the money raised by this will go to the Red Sox Foundation or the Jimmy Fund. The team does a lot for charity, but organizations as rich as this one can always do more. This cash cow will never dry up as long as the team keeps winning, keeps merchandising and keeps fans dancing to that has-been Neil Diamond singing 'Sweet Caroline.'

Some messages for next season: Stop sticking seats everywhere but atop the flagpole in centerfield. The Monster Seats are a ripoff. And replace Neil with anything by the Dropkick Murphy's except 'Tessie.' A seventh inning stretch filled up by 'Shipping up to Boston' would be nice. Try it. Remember, these fans will buy anything. Including an old bleacher seat. That being said, let the playoffs begin.

Southern California bandwagon

I hopped atop the University of Southern California bandwagon a long time ago, and I refuse to get off. I have wiped O.J. Simpson off the slate, but continue to root for and watch the Sons of John McKay/John Robinson coached by Pete Carroll.

Saturday's sloppy win over Washington notwithstanding, the Trojans are still the team to beat. A buddy of mine bet me recently that No. 3 Oklahoma would eventually topple USC, but the Sooners fell at Colorado Saturday, so that wager looks a lot better right about now. The Sooners might even lose to Texas this week while the Trojans coast past Stanford. And, those Boston College Eagles, still undefeated, cracked the Top 10 for the first time since 1984. Doug Flutie must be very proud indeed.

Mello broke two school records

According to longtime Wilmington High football professor John Ritchie, the seven touchdown, 275-yard performance by senior Ernie Mello on Friday, September 21st against Lawrence both broke school records.

Ritchie said that during the 1962 season, Hall of Famer Jack Bowen, whose number is retired, scored five touchdowns and rushed for 340 yards in the team's win over North Andover. On Sept. 21st, Mello scored seven touchdowns and rushed for 375 yards according to this reporter in the team's 47-33 victory over Lawrence.

Ritchie added that as long as he's watched WHS Football, dating back more than 60 years, no other running back has scored seven touchdowns, or rushed for more than 375 yards.

The Town Crier would like to thank Ritchie for his knowledge of the football program, and would also like to congratulate Ernie Mello on breaking two school records.

Mello's night quite a story

Dear Jamie:

I have had the privilege of reading your articles for several years. I look forward to getting my Town Crier delivered on Thursdays and immediately start with the sports section. You have a great talent, maybe because most of your articles seem to come from your Wilmington pride.

You've written some nice articles about my son Michael (Wilmington Hockey) which I've collected and treasure. But, I'm taking this time to write to you about the articles I read (in this past week's issue) pertaining to Ernie Mello.

I've known, watched and coached Ernie for years. He is truly an exceptional athlete, good student and a great kid. I know his parents are extremely proud of him.

I was at the game against Lawrence when he scored his seven touchdowns, as well as the other games that the football team won this year (Kristen my daughter, is a sophomore and a varsity cheerleader - I go to watch her as well). I saw Ernie score the seven touchdowns and cheered for him like he was my own son.

The reason I'm writing to you today is that when I read your articles (in last week's edition), I felt the excitement all over again. The way you wrote those articles brought excitement and an incredible sense of passion, I could feel it in every word.

I want you to know that your articles, passion and... Wilmington... appreciated.

I wish you continued success and hope that this is truly a special year for Wilmington High-School sports. I look forward to reading your articles because you obviously enjoy the games as much as I do.

right-handed signal thrower completed 8-of-11 attempts for 252 yards with two touchdown passes to help lead Wilmington to a 34-13 victory over Amesbury under the lights at Alumni Stadium.

Wilmington is now 4-0 on the season and 3-0 in the Cape Ann League. This Friday night, the 'Cats will travel to a hostile environment to take on Masconomet, who come into the game also unbeaten at 4-0 but are just 1-0 against league opponents.

Back to Moon, he had struggled for consistency through the first three games completing 11-of-21 passes for 121 yards without a TD pass. But on Friday night, he came through with flying colors with two gorgeous TD passes, the first coming on the second play from scrimmage to Tom Barry and the second coming in the last few minutes of the first half to Steven Stewart, who along with Moon had an exceptional game.

"I was thrilled for Kyle," said Almeida. "You could see right throw to senior receiver Tom Barry who went in for his first varsity touchdown, a 53-yarder making it 6-0 just 61 seconds into the game as the PAT kick try failed.

Serwon caught a 16-yard pass setting up Kevin Johnston's touchdown run as Amesbury tied the game up at 6-6 on the ensuing series as the PAT kick was blocked by the Wildcat defenders.

With less than three minutes to go in the first half, Moon connected on back-to-back passes, first a 40-yard screen to Mello, which followed with a very impressive 24-yard strike over the middle to Stewart, who cut back and darted to the outside to reach the end zone for what proved to be the game winning score.

"We always want to bring balanced and be balanced for me," said Almeida. "I was very happy for Tommy Barry, a senior who works his butt off all of the time. He caught a touchdown pass in a preseason scrimmage but this was his first one made to (Steven) Stewart on that touchdown. That was a great throw. (Moon) made some big long plays when they were loading up on the run and it was wide open so that's why we were throwing the ball so much in the first half."

Leading 13-6 after Stewart's touchdown and PAT conversion, the 'Cats increased their lead as Mello scored his 15th touchdown of the season going in from 12 yards out making it 20-6 at half-time. Mello's touchdown was set up by Mike Manganelli, who made a gorgeous leaping 49-yard catch on a deep pass down the right sideline from Moon coming from the Wildcat 39 yard line.

Wilmington quickly put the game away in the third quarter adding two more scores. Mello added touchdown run number 16 on a 4-yard scamper which followed by Stewart's 5-yard roll-out touchdown run coming with 37 seconds left in the third quarter as he took a handful of snaps down the stretch giving Moon a breather.

Shawsheen Tech Sports Round-Up

Boys Cross Country team off to undefeated mark

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen boys cross country team continued their strong start to the season last Wednesday afternoon at Shawsheen, sweeping a tri-meet over Essex Aggie and Northeast Regional to improve their record to 4-0 on the season.

Leading the way for the Rams was senior co-captain Chris Damp of Tewksbury who finished first overall in a time of 18:55, one of seven Rams to finish in the top 10 of the race overall. Damp was the Rams top finisher in the team's season opening meet the week before, finishing second overall, and is off to a great start.

"Chris was solid in cross country last year, but was a star in spring track in the 800 meters," Shawsheen coach Tim Broadrick said. "He made a commitment over the summer to cross country and put in a lot of hours of training and he is enjoying the benefits now."

Sophomore Bjorn Hanson took second place overall with a time of 19:12, while a pair of juniors, Josh Weaver of Wilmington (19:45) and Jeff Quilty of Tewksbury (20:50) finished fifth and sixth respectively.

Quilty is new to cross country, while Weaver is well known to Broadrick and the Rams.

"Quilty ran track, but he has never run cross country before and it is completely different. Nothing prepares you for the endurance needed for cross country and Jeff has done a great job," Broadrick said. "Weaver was a Lowell Sun All-Star last year and out number one. I don't think that he has dropped or anything, but it is more just that Chris is just running so well and so is Bjorn."

Co-captain Nick Illsley of Tewksbury grabbed a seventh place finish and has had a fine season so far for the Rams.

"Nick has been outstanding. He is very solid and is doing a great job," Broadrick said. "The strength of our team is our depth and Nick is a perfect example of why this team is doing so well this year and for the past couple of years."

The results did not go as well for the girls team, as they went 1-2 in their quad meet against Essex Aggie, Northeast and defending CAC champ PMA of Methuen.

Despite the less than stellar results, which dropped the Lady Rams to 3-2 on the season, they did get several outstanding individual performances and Broadrick was pleased with the way his team competed against such great competition.

"This was a good showing for them," Broadrick said. "PMA is the defending champ and Northeast is very good as well. I thought they did well."

Sophomore Abby Pinard of Tewksbury finished third overall and was the top finisher for Shawsheen, picking up right where she left off last season, with a time of 24:47. Following close behind was another of the Lady Rams young and talented runners, sophomore Alyssa Mooney of Tewksbury in a time of 24:50. Kristina Zacchini finished sixth overall in a time of 25:29.

"Abby was our top runner last year as just a freshman and she is off to a good start this year. She is still number one for us this year, but now she is being pushed by the next two runners as well," Broadrick said. "Alyssa is new to the team, but she is already doing very well for us and providing some competition for Abby and Kristina."

Boys Soccer

The Shawsheen boys soccer team extended their unbeaten streak to start the season with a win and a tie this week, picking up a 3-0 win over Fellowship on Monday afternoon on the road and earning a 2-2 tie with Chelsea in a home game last Thursday, improving their record on the season to 5-0-3.

The Monday win over Fellowship was actually not as close as the score would indicate based on territorial play and shots on goal, with the Rams out shooting Fellowship by a count of 22-5 for the game.

"We really controlled the game the majority of the time," Shawsheen coach Dick Barris said. "It was almost like a passing drill at times, but unfortunately when we did shoot the ball on net we were hitting posts and crossbars so they game stayed close for quite a while."

The Rams scored their first goal of the game at the 13 minute mark when Craig Pease scored on a rebound of a Mike Puccio shot for a 1-0 lead. Eric McLaughlin extended the lead to 2-0 in the 19th minute, but the Rams could get nothing further before the break.

At halftime Barris pulled starting goalie Mike LaMonica and moved him to forward. LaMonica responded late in the game with an unassisted goal off of a steal from the Fellowship defender for his fourth goal of the year.

LaMonica has been outstanding in goal for the Rams this season, but when called upon for offense he has responded as well.

"He's got more goals than half my forwards," Barris said.

Last Thursday the Rams came away with a 2-2 tie against CAC power Chelsea, which in many respects was a tremendous result for the Rams, but with Chelsea scoring the game tying goal with under three minutes left in the contest, the tie was hardly satisfying for Barris.

The Rams had overcome a 1-0 halftime deficit to tie the game early in the second half on a goal by Luke Riberio, and took a 2-1 lead at the 16 minute mark of the second half on a direct kick by Brian Conway before Chelsea netted their late equalizer.

"When we tied the game 1-1, I was thinking that it would be great to get out with a tie against Chelsea," Barris said. "But once we had the lead and it was so late in the game, a tie was tough to take. Our kids basically earned a win, but did not get the win."

LaMonica made 15 saves against Chelsea, and got some nice defensive help from Calvin McMillan and Kyle Brenigan.

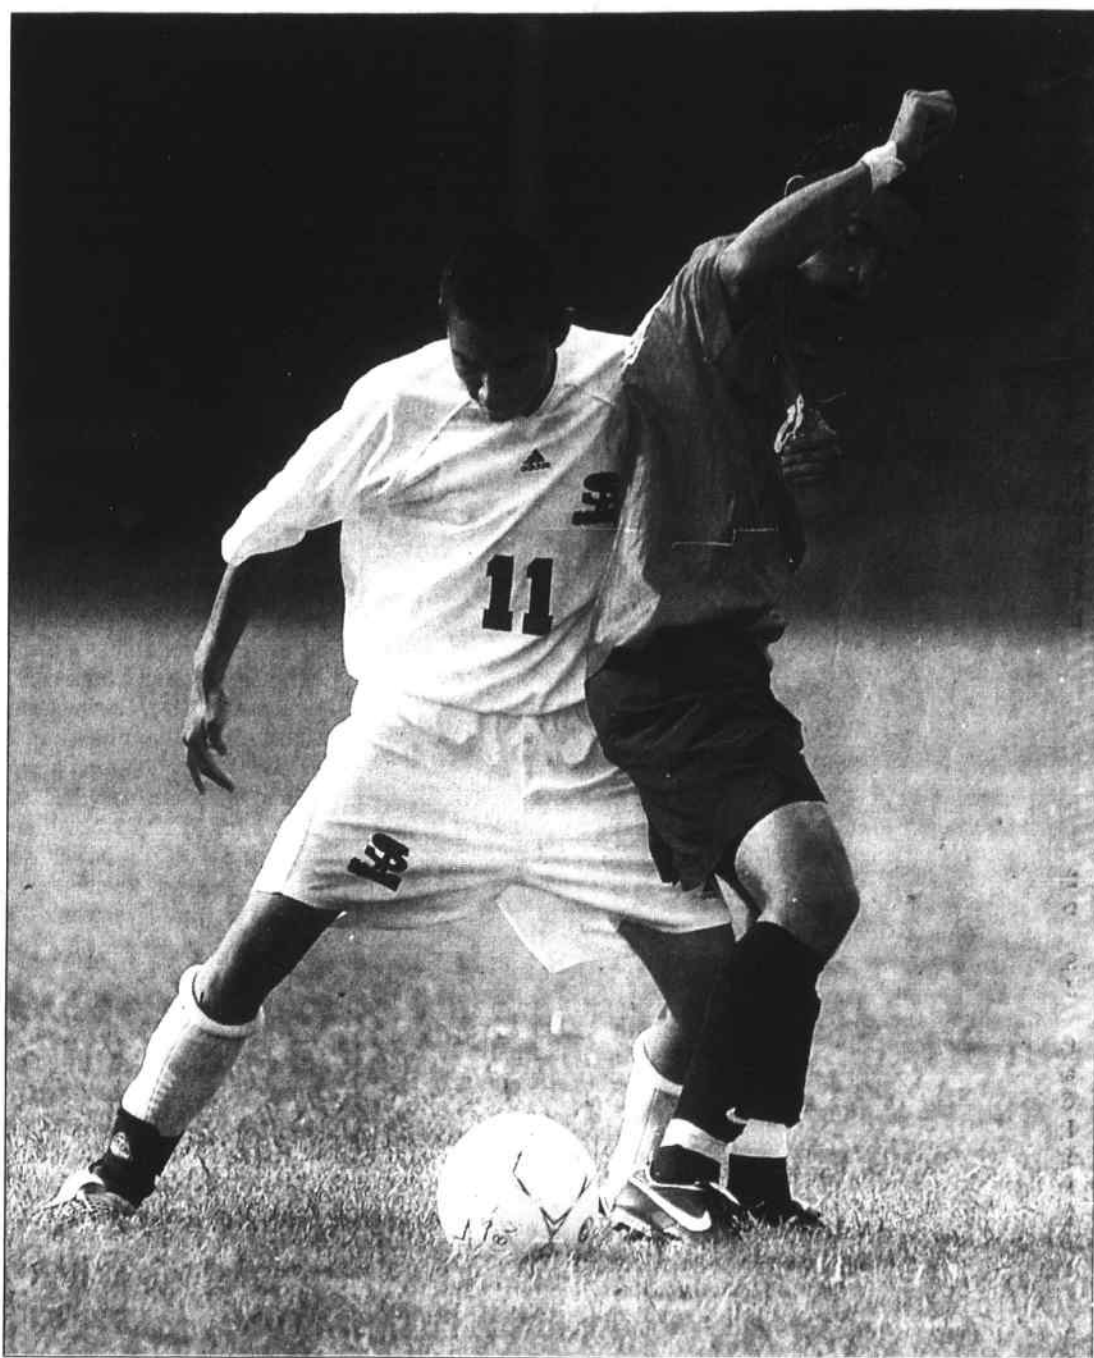

Despite the disappointment of the tie against Chelsea, Barris is very pleased and also surprised with where his undefeated team stands at this point of the season. With the team moving from the Lower to the Upper Division of the CAC, it was hard to tell what to expect this season, but so far the results for the Rams have been very good.

"No way did I expect at this point of the season to be undefeated," Barris said. "With the tough schedule we have had to this point I would not have believed it. But it's a tribute to the kids. They have done a good job of staying within themselves. They are not always the most talented team, but they do what they have to do to win."

Girls Soccer

The girls soccer team also continued their undefeated season last week with a 4-0 win over Lynn Tech, which much like their male counterparts was not really as close as the score would indicate with the Lady Rams dominating play despite a relatively slow start to improve their record on the season to 6-0-1.

Shawsheen was led once again on offense by sophomore sensation Jenn Carroll of Wilmington.

The Shawsheen Tech boys soccer team is off to a flying start, currently unbeaten at 5-0-3 through the first half of the season.

(JoeBrownphotos.com)

Carroll scored two first half goals for the Lady Rams, her 14th and 15th of the season to get the her team going and Shawsheen coasted from there adding two more goals in the second half with Heather Massey and Jessica Lebreque each finding the back of the net.

"For some reason we started off real slow, with no goals in the first ten minutes of the game, but then Jenn scored two and we were able to have a good lead at the half," Shawsheen coach Doug Michaud said.

Carroll had an outstanding season last year as a freshman, but even with the high expectations she brought into this season, Michaud is a little surprised at just how effective she has been.

"I am a little surprised," Michaud said. "Sometimes if I don't see a goal, I will turn around and be like is that Jenn again? I put her in the halfback spot against Lynn Tech and she put one in from the top of the box. She can score from anywhere because she puts the ball on net no matter where she shoots from."

Massey has picked up her game offensively as well in recent games, even though putting the ball in the net is not the strongest part of her game.

"Heather is doing great. She has gotten a lot of key goals for us, including the one game that Jenn did not score when we beat Northeast 1-0," Michaud said. "Really though, she is more of a playmaker. Her real strength is setting people up."

Shawsheen will take on Northeast once again on Thursday, followed by Greater Lowell on Friday, and will be looking for an easier time against Northeast than in the first game. While taking nothing for granted, Michaud sees the CAC once again coming down to a battle between his squad and defending league champ Greater Lowell who beat the Lady Rams three out of four times last season, including the state vocational tournament. The two teams played to a 5-5 tie earlier this season.

"It's similar to last year except that we are in a little better position this year where we tied them the first time we played them," Michaud said. "Last year we lost the first time we faced them and it felt like we had play catch up the whole year."

Rams grind out win over Manchester-Essex

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

BILLERICA - The Shawsheen Tech football team has proven they can win games in a variety of styles this season. Last week it was the passing attack that led them to an easy victory in coach Al Costabile's 100th career victory.

This week against Manchester-Essex, it was the Rams powerful ground attack led by sophomore Chris Clark's 208 rushing yards that led them to a hard fought 18-7 victory in a CAC crossover battle at Samuel J. Cassidy Field.

Overall the Rams rushed for 281 yards in the game and used a dominant second half pull away from the CAC Lower Division champions after the teams battled to a 7-7 halftime tie. In the end it was not only the rushing attack, but a swarming defense that sacked the Manchester quarterback seven times and allowed only one significant drive that allowed the Upper Division Rams to improve their record to 4-0 on the season.

"This was a grinder," said Shawsheen coach Al Costabile. "If you want to have a great season you have some games you have to grind out. You don't always get the breaks but you still have to get the job done."

After a hard fought first half where neither team was able to get their offense going The Rams took the lead for good midway through the third quarter on a 60 yard run by Clark, who was sprung by a great block by senior running back Pat Fullerton on a sweep around the left side. After getting the block about ten yards downfield, Clark raced untouched to the end zone for his sixth touchdown of the year with 4:46 left in the quarter.

The Rams had caught a big break just a few moments earlier, when their first possession of the second half stalled and they were forced to punt only to see the snap sail over the punter's head to give Manchester a first down at the Shawsheen 26 yard line.

Four plays later, it looked as if Hornet quarterback Pat Orlando was going to go into the end zone to give his team the lead, but he fumbled at the goal line and the Rams recovered in the end zone and took over at their 20 yard line.

Manchester believed the ground had caused the fumble and they may have had a point, but either way the Rams took full advantage of their good fortune, needing only three Clark running plays to take a lead they would never relinquish, with the score standing at 13-7 after a failed extra point attempt.

"That was a huge turning point of the game," Costabile said. "For us to be able to come right back like that and score was huge for us."

On Shawsheen's next possession, senior kicker Ryan McLaughlin got a shot at redemption for the failed extra point and made the most of it, as the drive stalled at the Manchester 16 yard line and he drilled a 33 yard field goal from the right hash mark. Facing a fourth and three Costabile did not hesitate to send his veteran kicker out to attempt the kick and McLaughlin reward his faith, as he calmly split the uprights making the score 16-7 with 10:49 left in the game.

Manchester tried to fight back and was on the move with the ball in Shawsheen territory, but Wilmington's Joe Gore came up with a huge interception to thwart the effort.

Manchester came up with an interception of their own on the Rams ensuing possession, but the pick actually ended up working in the Rams favor as the Hornets took possession at their two yard line and three plays later the Rams got their final score of the game when senior tri-captain Josh DeLisle of Tewksbury sacked Orlando in the end zone with 4:40 left in the game for one of his two sacks on the day. Steve McIsaac also had a pair of sacks for the Rams.

The Rams had several defensive stars on the day, with Marc Clerveau and John Allen once again coming up with strong performances from their defensive tackle positions and Tewksbury's Matt Bradley making several big plays from his middle linebacker position.

Shawsheen had opened the scoring in the first half on a seven play, 66 yard drive capped off by a six yard off tackle run by Fullerton with 3:03 left in the first quarter. The key play in the drive was a 29 yard pass from senior quarterback Joe Gore to Clark to give the Rams a first down at the Manchester 30 yard line.

Manchester's only score of the game came on a well executed nine play, 92 yard drive, that was keyed by a 58 yard pass play from Orlando to Brian Ciccone and was capped off on a one yard quarterback sneak by Orlando to tie the score at 7-7 with 7:12 left in the first half.

On Saturday afternoon the Rams will look to keep their unbeaten streak alive when they travel to Georgetown High School to take on the 2-1 Royals. Georgetown, of the CAC Lower Division, enters the game off a big 33-16 win over Upper Division rival Whittier Tech. The Royals got three rushing touchdowns in the game from junior quarterback Joe Esposito, giving the

Last season the Rams defeated

Georgetown at Cassidy Field by a score of 32-14 despite 218 yards passing and 42 yards rushing from Esposito. The Rams were led by a huge game from Pat Fullerton, who ran for 197 yards and two touchdowns, while Chris Clark also had a pair of touchdowns runs, and Joe Gore threw for a score.

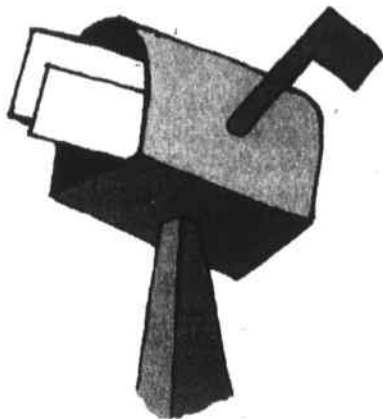

Costabile knows that much like this week, his team will face a stiff challenge from their Lower Division foes.

"That's going to be a tough game for us," Costabile said. "Georgetown and Manchester will play each other for the league title this year. This is a good team and we are going on the road. We will need a great week of practice and we will need to play a great game."

This is the maiden voyage of the People Page Mailbag! This is quite the exciting occasion. I have wanted to do this forever, and I finally got my chance. Three of my faithful readers have submitted burning questions that they need answered.

With how impressive the Patriots have looked in the first four games, do you think it is possible for them to finish the season undefeated? I know it's early but this team has already crushed two playoff teams from last year and I've never seen the offense doing this well.

Scott B. Wilmington

Well Scott, I am certainly drinking the Patriots Kool-Aid and I am completely convinced they are going to run away with the league. However, I don't think they will run the table. I just think there is too much parody in today's NFL. The Pats still have good Dallas and Indy teams to play, plus some other games against Washington, Baltimore and Pittsburgh that won't be cakewalks. I do know however, when the Pats play the Jets again, in Gilette, it will be the most one-sided beating to ever take place on a football field.

(The following question was sent 10 days ago)

So we all know that the Boston Red Sox have clinched a playoff spot for this season. Do you think that this is good enough for the team, or do you feel that if we do not win this division after all of this time, that their season has went down the drain?

Justyn L. Wilmington

Justyn, that's an intriguing question. Granted, the Sox have won the division. And people claim that they wouldn't care if the Sox won the division or the Wild Card. But let's not lie to ourselves. We wanted to win that division. If the Yankees took that over, we would have lost a 14 game lead. They held on, played good ball and are rolling into the playoffs. And plus, the Yankees will lose to the Indians in five. You heard it here first.

Why are the Chargers struggling so much if they still have the same weapons that they dominated with last season? Gates, Rivers, Merriman, and of course the heavily acclaimed Tomlinson; where are these guys?

Kyle L. Wilmington

Kyle, it would seem the entire country is asking the same question. The problem is not in the talent, its in the powers that be. The San Diego management thought they had the team last year to be champions, so they were feeling their oats and fired Marty Schottenheimer, the fifth winningest coach in NFL history. Now, wishy-washy Norv Turner, once again, cannot take a team and make it playoff-caliber. The problem isn't always the players. And its only a matter of time before the players become ornery and exacerbate an already ugly situation.

Thanks for the questions, readers, keep sending them in! If you have questions or comments you want to be part of a mailbag, send it in to people_page@yahoo.com

A Merry Go Round of sports thoughts locally and professionally

By LOUIE CIMAGLIA
Sports Correspondent

There's never a wrong time to take a look around the world of sports. So let's go.

This past Sunday, Wilmington Pop Warner hosted Melrose. Local Heroes had a fundraiser that went extremely well, thanks to both programs.

The Wilmington D-1 team won again, 20-6, running their record to 4-0. Last week, they dismantled Woburn, who was thought to be their best competition.

The Wilmington High School football team clashes with Masconomet. The winner undoubtedly will be in great shape to win the Cape Ann League Title. In the Boston Globe, Wilmington is ranked 28 in the state. Masco is 31.

Speaking of the Boston Globe, WHS Senior Ernie Mello was recently featured in the Northwest Section for his torrid start so far - 14 touchdowns in 4 games and almost 900 yards. Mello is a co-captain for the Wildcats, and you can find some of his exploits on Boston.com and lowellsun.com.

The Boys Varsity Soccer team is undefeated still, as well, with a record of 4-0-1. Steve Scanlon has said this team has the most talent of any team he's had in 10 years.

There's a lot going on professionally as well.

First off, I am very excited that Don Orsillo is calling playoff games for TBS. That will be great until the World Series, when FOX and Tim McCarver take their turn. Joe Buck is fine, but McCarver needs a new job. He is simply not good at being a color man. He rambles on and on, he hates the Red Sox, loves the Yankees and is somewhat incompetent. There is a website called shutupmccarver.com, which I may frequent in the future. They have some of his best quotes, including, "Something to keep in mind - it's raining lightly. The infield could be very wet on ground balls." Also, "Pitching is such a vital part of the game, as far as winning is concerned".

And my personal favorite, "There is a world of difference between a count of one ball and two strikes is a lot different situation than hitting with two strikes and one ball." Time to retire Tim.

The New York Mets had one of the most historic implosions ever. They were up on the Phillies two weeks ago by about seven games. Long story short, Phillies win the division and the Mets aren't even in the playoffs. Here's a funny anecdote. The Phillies are one batter away from winning their final game and clinching the division. The final batter for the Washington Nationals strikes out looking to end the game, and the Mets season. Who is this heroic whiffer? None other than my man, Willy Mo Pena. He single handedly kept the Mets out of the playoffs by not swinging. Even out of a Boston uniform, he still manages to destroy the city of New York.

Also, a congratulations to Brett Favre. He broke Dan Marino's all time touchdown record. I was never a Favre fan, but he is a classy guy who loves the game, and has certainly done a world of good for the game. Good for you Brett.

As I have said before, one of my favorite shows on TV is The Contender. It takes little-known fighters and gives them national exposure. This is great for the struggling boxing industry. It's on at 10 every Tuesday night. Check it out.

How about my Syracuse Orange getting in on the college football upset madness? They topped the Louisville Cardinals. And L'ville wasn't the only big team to bite the dust. Florida, Oklahoma, West Virginia, Rutgers and more all fell. And how this for surprising, the Top 10 has Wisconsin, South Florida, Kentucky, Boston College and Cal. Not quite as traditional as normal.

Oh I almost forgot, the Red Sox are in the postseason. You've already heard everything there is to hear about that. But on a somber note, Tim Wakefield has been left off the roster with a sore back. There may be no bigger Wakefield fan than myself, and I hate to see him left out. He is one of the classiest guys you will ever see, and hopefully he still has some good years ahead of him.

On a more humorous note, Michael Vick has been attending PETA meetings on animal cruelty. Insert your own joke here.

One of the Town Crier's favorite people, Lisa Hodge, of Wilmington, finished Sunday's road race coming in at 1:54.08 in the 5K event.

Porter and Tello lead undefeated Rams Golf team

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen golf team is another team at the Tech that is having a great season, as they also continued their undefeated season this past week with a pair of CAC victories over Minuteman last Friday as well as over Northeast on Tuesday. Both victories came by scores of 9-0 as the Rams similarly improved their record on the season to 9-0 as well.

Against Northeast, the Rams were led by the pairing of number one player Brandon Porter and number four Steve Tello of Wilmington. Porter shot a 35 and battled to a 5.5-3.5 victory while Tello shot a 36 and cruised by a score of 6.5-2.5. The pair also won the best ball competition by a score of 6-3.

Number two D.J. Shepherd shot a 37 to earn a 7.5-1.5 score, while number five, freshman Brett Fredricksen shot a 45 to pick up the 5-4 victory and the pair easily won their best ball by a score of 7-2.

The Rams wrapped up their scoring with two more great performances out of their number three and number six players. Number three Jon McDonald shot a 41 and won by a score of 6-3, while freshman Danny Jacobs fired a 41 to win 6.5-2.5, and the pair won their best ball by a score of 6-3.

"Northeast is a good team and they played well," Shawsheen coach Tom Struthers said. "We just played better. Our entire team is playing very well right now."

The Rams of course, have been playing very well all season long and last Friday against Minuteman was no exception as the same players rolled to victory, led by Shepherd shooting a remarkable four under par 31.

"D.J. just had an incredible day," Struthers said. "And he just missed another birdie by about a foot. He is capable of doing even better. He knows how to play the golf course and he uses the right club at the right time all the time."

Shepherd and Porter are clearly leading the way for the Rams, but it is the entire team that has stepped up as the season has gone on.

"These kids love competition," Struthers said. "When the competition is on, that's when they shine the most."

The Rams were looking to shine more than ever on Wednesday of this week when they began play in the state vocational tournament. Results of the tournament were not available at press time, but Struthers was confident his team would do well.

"One of the biggest things we wanted this year was to win the voke tournament," Struthers said. "There is no reason why we should not win it if we play the way we are capable of playing. It would be great for the kids to win it."

If that sounds like a little pressure on the Rams to win the tournament then it probably is, but Struthers says that a little extra pressure will not hurt his team at all.

"These kids do not feel pressure," Struthers said. "When the pressure comes, they just play better."

MASS HIGHWAY

Four year Task Force produces 10 recommendations, call for citizen advisory

By PAUL FEELY

The process of determining ways to alleviate traffic congestion at the Interstates 93 and 95 Interchange has entered its second phase, with the filing of an Environmental Notification Form with the state.

Over the summer, the final report summing up the many years of work by the I-93/I-95 Interchange Transportation Study Task Force was published and distributed to Task Force members and local officials in the four communities that will be most closely affected by any changes being proposed.

There is currently a 30-day comment period underway before MEPA officials make any recommendations. Due to the size of the recommended project that an Environmental Impact Report (EIR) will be required before any final decisions are made.

The EIR process will allow for more public input on the proposals being made in the Task Force report. During this process a citizens' advisory committee would be formed and public hearings would be held.

In a letter accompanying the Task Force Report, Frey stated, "The package of recommendations presented in this report reflects the valuable - and substantial - input of the Task Force members. The ITF (Interchange Task Force) worked closely with the study team in a cooperative and collaborative fashion to develop solutions that improve traffic and safety, maintain local access, avoid property takings and minimize community impacts."

The 100 page (plus six page executive summary) Task Force report summarizes most of the work that went into the final recommendations being made for study during the MEPA process. It includes the many components of road design that were looked at before the final two plans were accepted for recommendation. Also included are 10 recommendations that were not put into design form but deal with noise and other environmental pollution problems.

The reports executive summary states, "The I-93/I-95 Interchange is a major part of the regional highway system and a key to the economy of the Commonwealth. Severe congestion and safety problems exist at the interchange, due mainly to its very short weaving distances and other substantial geometry. The interchange carries more traffic than any other in New England (over 375,000 vehicles per day), and projected increases in future traffic would make the problems even worse at the 'bottleneck' congested location.

"This location has the highest crash rate (accidents per million vehicles) of any similar interchange in Massachusetts, with many crash clusters in the interchange coinciding with the geometric deficiencies. Furthermore, its close proximity to other interchanges (especially Washington on I-95/Route 128) compounds the problems and necessitates inclusion of some adjacent interchanges as part of the solution."

Over its close to four year existence, the Task Force studied the Interchange area from Montvale Avenue and I-93 (at the Woburn/Stoneham line) to the Route 62 interchange in Wilmington and from Route 129 (at the Reading/Wakefield line) on Route 128 to Route 38 in Woburn.

The report includes the following 10 recommendations:

4.1 HIGHWAYS

Recommendation 1:

The alternatives to be advanced for environmental study should both include split Washington Street ramps and a northbound Route 128 connector to I-93.

Recommendation 2:

Alternatives H3-OS and H3-US should be given equal scrutiny to explore construction sequences, refine costs, and establish comparative noise, visual, and wetland impacts in detail. The appropriate place to answer these remaining questions and select a final highway alternative is in the environmental study which must follow the planning study.

The interchange carries more traffic than any other in New England (over 375,000 vehicles per day)

Recommendation 3: During the environmental phase, further engineering should be done to explore variations that can improve the two alternatives and reduce their impact.

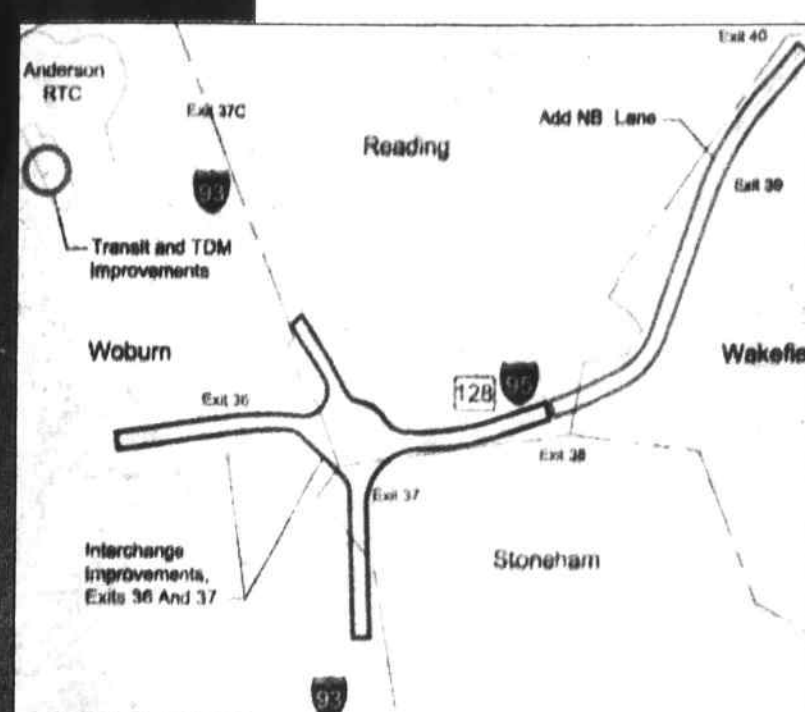

Recommendation 4: Extension of the fourth lane on Route 128 northbound to Exit 40 (Route 129), and on Route 128 southbound from Exit 38 (Route 28) should be implemented as an interim improvement, along with an on-ramp from Cedar Street in Woburn to southbound I-93. Where warranted by MassHighway noise abatement guidelines, noise barriers should be constructed as part of the interim improvements, adjacent to the added lanes on Route 128 and also at other locations around the I-93/I-95 Interchange where barrier relocation would not be required during construction of full improvements.

Recommendation 5: All transit and TDM improvements described in Chapter 3 should be included with the recommended highway improvements in an integrated multi-modal package of actions to be further developed and analyzed in the environmental phase.

Recommendation 6: coordination with an ongoing Citizens Advisory Committee incorporating the members and interests of the I-93/I-95 Interchange Task Force and the affected communities. Minimizing takings, noise, and visual impacts are essential to maintaining community support.

Recommendation 8:

A study of long-range ITS improvements should be undertaken to address information systems, ramp metering, and variable speed limits as potential techniques to better manage congestion on the

THIS GRAPHIC shows the area of impact involved in the Environmental Notification Filing for the Interstate 93/95 Interchange project, the second major phase in this years-long process. See story for details.

The highway and non-highway recommendations of the I-93/I-95 Interchange Study have been conceived, evaluated, and discussed with the Interchange Task Force as a multi-modal integrated package of improvements. Therefore, this package, including interim improvements, should be developed and evaluated in a single environmental study, resulting in an Environmental Impact Report and Statement that addresses the entire package.

Recommendation 7:

The environmental studies should be based on a continued open process of public involvement and should be prepared in coordination with an ongoing Citizens Advisory Committee incorporating the members and interests of the I-93/I-95 Interchange Task Force and the affected communities. Minimizing takings, noise, and visual impacts are essential to maintaining community support.

Recommendation 8: A study of long-range ITS improvements should be undertaken to address information systems, ramp metering, and variable speed limits as potential techniques to better manage congestion on the

by Paul Feely

"GDOM" - an action packed thriller

JAMIE FOXX STARS AS RONALD FLEURY in an American military movie that portrays America's war on terror in a positive light. Director Peter Berg tames a good script and turns it into an action packed thriller.

"GDOM"
GRADE: *****

Finally, a Hollywood movie about American military involvement in the War on Terror that actually shows America in a positive light. Director Peter Berg has taken a good script by Matthew Michael Carnahan about a terrorist attack on Americans in Saudi Arabia, based on a real 2003 incident, and produced an action-packed, high tension film with exceptional special effects that puts the viewer in the middle of the mayhem.

Especially effective is the camera work by Mauro Fiore and the music by Danny Elfman.

Ronald Fleury (Jamie Foxx) is an FBI agent who takes matters into his own hands when his superiors are reluctant to allow him to go to Saudi Arabia and get involved in the horrible attack. He takes his partners, Grant Sykes (Chris Cooper), Janet Mayes (Jennifer Garner), and Adam Leavitt (Jason Bateman) with him for a quick trip to Saudi Arabia to try to find those responsible. Once there, he finds himself under the tether of Colonel Faris Al Ghazi (Ashraf Barhom).

Berg captures the horror of terror attacks several times during the film. One of the more memorable ones occurs when a suicide bomber blows himself up when we least expect it and it feels as if we are standing right next to him. Although the actors are good, this is a director's movie. Berg keeps the interest and tension at a high level throughout.

Berg says that he wasn't "looking to make an all-American film about a group of Americans that come and kick (butt) in an Arab culture. We're politically neutral in the film. If we go after anyone, it's violent extremism. This movie is about Americans and Arabs working together in a very decent and human way."

There was no overt message in the film until the end, and the message certainly captures one possible outlook for the world. Regardless of whether or not Berg was sending a message, or the message someone might get out of it, in the end a film should be entertaining, and this one is.

"GOOD LUCK CHUCK"
GRADE: ***

Dane Cook is great as a standup comedian, but unfortunately he remains Exhibit A in the case against some comedians making the leap to the movie screen.

His latest film, "Good Luck Chuck," is an unfunny mix of Don't bother with this one.

"THE BRAVE ONE"
GRADE: *****

Jodie Foster's new film "The Brave One" is about how a random act of violence changes a woman who survives it; how she becomes someone darker and colder, unafraid to do what she needs to take back the night. The film is a rarity: a violent action movie with a heart and soul.

Foster, looking thin and taut, plays Erica Bain, an NPR radio commentator whose life with her fiancé, David (Naveen Andrews), seems almost too happy. That life ends, quickly and horribly, as they walk their dog one night in Central Park. A gang of thugs ambushes them, one wielding a camera-phone. Both are beaten savagely: David is killed, Erica nearly so.

Weeks later, she leaves the hospital and goes home, to an empty apartment and dead flowers in a vase. Fearful and altered, she slowly transforms, gradually choosing to embrace violence rather than shrink from it. As stories of vigilante crime grip the city, police detective Sean Mercer (Terrence Howard) steps slowly closer to the truth.

Foster, in a performance of quiet, devastating honesty, takes hold of the movie, walking us through Erica's gradual transformation.

Though the action sometimes feels a bit contrived (it seems unlikely that Erica would suddenly have so many unconnected encounters with violent situations, so close together), the actors make us believe it all.

The film, which makes us understand Erica's actions without requiring us to approve of them, will likely inspire much discussion. Foster's long line of work paints a picture of a mature, confident artist unafraid to tackle dark, questionable territory, and this film is a worthy addition to her portfolio.

"3:10 TO YUMA"
GRADE: ******

"3:10 to Yuma" offers plenty of guns-blazing, pulse-pounding action, but it's the excellent lead performances that stay with you.

Russell Crowe and Christian Bale play, essentially, opposite numbers in James Mangold's ("Walk the Line") update of the 1957 film of the same name.

Crowe plays notorious criminal Ben Wade, who crosses paths with cattle rancher Dan Evans (Bale) after Wade and his gang rob a coach full of Southern Pacific money. As Dan and his sons watch from afar, Wade proves himself to be the remorseless criminal of legend.

Crowe's killer is cerebral and seductive. Crowe plays Wade as slightly amused in general but fully engaged when addressing someone who interests him, especially when that someone is female.

When Wade ends up at Dan's ranch house, Dan's wife (Gretchen Mol, whose old-school beauty suits the setting) quickly gets taken in. Dan's older boy (Logan Lerman, bursting with adolescent energy) recognizes immediately that the criminal is a far more forceful presence than his dad.

Nobody is all good or bad, and the spaces in between keep the ever-evolving relationship between Wade and Evans interesting. The rancher, a former Union sharpshooter who lost part of his leg in the war, needs money to save his ranch, so he joins the ragtag band of men accompanying Wade, after the criminal is captured, to the train that will take him to prison.

Bale is instantly sympathetic, a visibly vulnerable guy who seems unable to catch a break. A drought has ravaged his land and he no longer can provide for his family. The angular Bale looks hungry, in sharp contrast to the full-faced Crowe.

What follows is the predictable parade of gunplay, along with some more intimate acts of violence. The action is no more credible than a 1950s shoot-'em-up, but it's a lot more exciting (and occasionally disturbing). The film is beautifully shot, with vivid close-ups of wheeling horses and smoking six-guns. And the performances are top-notch, particularly the chemistry between the two stars as they move from guarded respect to macho rivalry to... well, no need to spoil the ending.

It's all great fun, not to be taken too seriously - which would be fine, except that one gets the sense that this film wants to be taken seriously.

Movies

from S-2

With the exception of Bale's acting, however, everything in Yuma is an amped-up cliché. Even more over-the-top is Ben Foster as Wade's lieutenant, whose quick-draw skills would give Doc Holliday a scare. What 3:10 to Yuma lacks in believability and originality, however, it makes up for in excitement.

"HALLOWEEN"

GRADE: **

There are instances in Rob Zombie's prequel/remake of John Carpenter's Halloween where killer Michael Myers is compared to Frankenstein's monster. The idea that society made Myers into the bogeyman isn't necessarily a new one, but the challenge of looking at 10 year-old Michael Myers (in a terrific performance by Daeg Faerch) as a real kid is by far the strongest stuff in Zombie's undertaking.

Treated as garbage by his stepfather, sister and classmates, Myers' instability is first revealed when he gives his pet rat a live dissection. The kid starts killing people, and they're not clean murders. Zombie registers the finality of death - letting us feel the weight of a human life being taken away. Once the film steps into a remake of the Carpenter film in its second half, it loses its seriousness.

As soon as Michael Myers becomes a faceless evil killing force, Zombie wants to forget that he introduced him as a human. The setup feels like part of a separate movie. Even the filmmaking takes a hit. When Rush's "Tom Sawyer" plays before a murder, Zombie doesn't build it to the expected melee of violence and classic rock that would have made the scene memorable. (An earlier moment of child Myers' dawning apathy set to Nazareth's "Love Hurts" is fantastic.)

There's an effort to update the story through the contemporary slang of the three teenage friends Myers' targets (played by Scout Taylor-Compton, Kristina Klebe, and series fan-fave Danielle Harris).

When portions of the film so closely resemble the original, you wonder why Zombie wanted to reinvent the wheel at all.

About the Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

CATCHING THE SEASONAL CHANGES

Down north to Tewksbury

"For the best price in town, and a unique sense of soft serve, ice-cream lovers should check out the Dairy Maid at 2119 Main Street in Tewksbury," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"This eighteen-employee enterprise shares space with Dandi-Lyons, making this unique business a combination ice-cream stand and flower shop. Offering soft serve, Richie's Slush, and traditional hard ice cream, this spot has something for everyone."

"Until this year, the corporation operated five locations: Reading and Tewksbury in Massachusetts, and Derry, Plaistow, and Manchester in New Hampshire. This year, Tewksbury is the only location selling ice-cream; the other locations are now strictly flower shops."

"Dairy Maid Manager, Debbie Verrocchio, knows that there are many ice cream lovers in Tewksbury."

"Soft Serve ice cream is the most popular menu offering at the Dairy Maid and the little shop offers it with dips, which is a favorite of the Crier Staff. They also offer sundaes, ice cream sandwiches and two new concoctions: Dandi-Ice and Dandi-Cream."

"Dandi-Ice is a mixture of Richie's Slush layered with a favorite soft serve flavor. Dandi-Cream mixes up soft serve ice cream with any one of eleven toppings from M&M to gummy bears to Butterfinger bar bits. Two favorite versions of the Dandi-Cream include Rainbow Gummy Explosion made with vanilla soft serve, rainbow jimmies and gummy bears. A more sophisticated palate might enjoy Coffee and Cream, which mixes together vanilla soft serve, coffee syrup and Oreos...."

Up and running: Lynnfield

"A long list of committee reappointments was approved by the Board of Selectmen," notes the "Lynnfield Villager."

"There are still openings on the Council on Aging, Board of Appeals (alternate), Conservation Commission, Cultural Council, Drainage Committee, Open Space Committee, Personnel Board, Board of Health and Recreation Commission. There is also an opening on the Finance Committee to be made by the Town Moderator David Miller who recently filled another vacancy on the Fincom with the appointment of Robert Cleary."

"The Selectmen interviewed two persons also at the meeting for the Board of Health, Dr. James Quinn and former member Irving Sacks, who said he would serve wherever needed."

"The following persons were reappointed to their positions: Town Accountant Julie McCarthy; Building Inspector Jack Roberto; Town Clerk Amy Summers; Assistant Town Clerk Diane Hammerbeck; Constables David Donegan, Paul Minsky, John O'Leary and John Ruehrwain; Town Counsel Thomas Mullen; Dog Officer Joe Procurot and Assistant Dog Officer Jean Procurot; Emergency Management Director and Lockup Keeper Paul Romano; Gas and Plumbing Inspector Martin Katz and Assistant Gas and Plumbing Inspector Donald LaConte.

"Also, Special Police Officers Hartley Beaudreau, Albert Caproni, John Conley, David Donegan, Stephen Garland, Vincent Macchia and Gordon Pepper; Treasurer/Tax Collector and Pretax Plan Administrator Christine O'Sullivan; Veterans Service Agent Neil Restani; Wire Inspector Steven Furey and Assistant Wire Inspector Theodore Cohen...."

Spring 2008: Wakefield

"Wakefield's Conservation Commission reviewed a Notice of Intent for a project involving the removal of pollutants in the sediment of Lake Quannapowitt in the vicinity of the Veteran's Field boat ramp," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Chuck Myette, of Browne and Cauldwell, and Project

Manager Ed Zimmerman were on hand at a meeting of the Conservation Commission where they explained that the site of the Wakefield Gas and Light Department facility on North Avenue is believed to have polluted the lake as a result of processing a coal tar-like substance several decades ago.

"Extensive studies, which have been funded in part by the Friends of Lake Quannapowitt, have been performed in recent years, and it was ultimately determined that the majority of the lake does not contain pollutants. It was found that the pollutants were relatively isolated, found only in the vicinity of the Veteran's Field and Hall Park, off North Avenue."

"Pollutants will be removed from the lake bottom sediment in an area with dimensions of approximately 150 feet by 250 feet.

"It was determined that using a cap would not solve the problem and the best solution is to remove the material," Myette explained.

"The removal of the pollutants will be performed by a hydraulic machine that acts like a giant vacuum. The material from the lake bottom is then filtered, with the sediment separated from the water, which will then be returned to the lake."

"The contaminated sediment will reportedly be transported by truck to a hazardous waste landfill."

"The actual work is expected to take approximately thirty days."

"At this point, the removal of the contaminated sediment is scheduled to be performed in the Spring of 2008...."

Interchange I-93 I-95 from S-1

region's expressways.

Recommendation 9. Because of the scale and complexity of the problem and because of its importance to long range mobility, energy conservation, and greenhouse gas reduction, a long-range regional HOV study is recommended.

Recommendation 10. The I-93/I-95 Interchange Transportation Study recommends incorporating regional and local land use planning efforts (such as MAPC's MetroFuture initiative) into transportation project planning, and encourages the full participation of Reading, Stoneham, Woburn, other local communities, and regional organizations in the planning process.

According to the Environmental Notification Form, the project's stormwater impacts are as follows:

The project would add a fourth northbound lane on Route 128 from the Interchange with I-93 (Exit 37) to Route 129 (Exit 40); and an auxiliary southbound lane on Route 128 from Route 28 (Exit 38) to the Mishawum Road on-ramp (Exit 36). Much of the area of the fourth lane is already paved, and bridges east of I-93 would not be altered. A parallel connector road from northbound Route 128 to the interchange and new ramps within the interchange would create new impervious area. The stormwater system for the project has not yet been designed, but would include elements to meet DEP stormwater policy regarding peak discharge rate and water quality. Based on review of the stormwater policy, it is expected that the project would be classified as a new project and would therefore meet all the applicable standards in the DEP Stormwater Policy and MassHighway's Stormwater Handbook for Highways and Bridges. Land is available within the interchange and the highway layout to provide drainage structures. With appropriate design, the project's stormwater impacts would be the same as those of the current highway and interchange.

The project would alter land immediately adjacent to I-93 and I-95 as described above. Except for a triangular area of 1700 to 4700 square feet in the northeast quadrant of the interchange (depending on the alternative) and an elevated ramp above 26,000 square feet of wetland area immediately southwest of the interchange, all work would be done within the existing highway layout line.

For the proposed pedestrian bridge at Anderson RTC, the MBTA and City of Woburn would need to negotiate an agreement with an industrial/commercial property owner(s) located west of and adjacent to the rail line and in the immediate vicinity of the station for use of access to land extending to New Boston Street. This proposal has the support of the City of Woburn and area business organizations, and it is hoped that all parties would be able to achieve a mutually beneficial arrangement. Alternately, a small amount of property (estimated less than 1 acre) would need to be acquired to provide access.

According to the ENF filing, in describing the project's consistency with other federal, state, regional, and local plans and policies related to traffic, transit, pedestrian and bicycle transportation facilities and services, the report states:

The project is consistent with the Massachusetts Long Range Transportation Plan, which cites the I-93/I-95 interchange as a needed major infrastructure improvement; a placeholder for the interchange improvements is included in the Boston Regional Transportation Plan. An integral part of the proposed project is a package of transit improvements to provide additional commuter rail service in the project area and shuttle bus service along Route 128 from Peabody to Lexington with connections at the

Anderson Regional Transportation Center (ARTC). The proposed project also includes Transportation Demand Management measures to increase transit use and carpooling. The total estimated effect of these nonhighway measures would be to remove up to 10,000 average daily trips from the highway system. Although pedestrian and bicycle improvements are not permissible within the Interstate Highway layout, pedestrian access improvements to the ARTC are also proposed. The net effect of the project will be an improvement in regional mobility and increased mode choice.

The project is consistent with the state transportation policy of providing remediation of existing problems before adding new capacity. Although the recommended alternatives include providing 2-lane interchange ramps where possible and extending the northbound fourth lane off Route 128 to remove the existing bottleneck that causes backups through the interchange, these improvements address shortfalls in the interchange area, not new capacity improvements in the region.

New England 65 Plus Runners Club will host event 6th Annual Run for All Ages

Runners and walkers of all ages are invited to take part in the Sixth Annual Run for All Ages 5K, which will take place around Lake Quannapowitt in Wakefield.

Boston Marathon Director Dave McGillivray and race director Jerry Panarese, of Lynnfield, has successfully organized the race, which has one of the best reputations in the area.

Participants between the ages of six and ninety will take part in this year's event.

Panarese, who will celebrate his 80th birthday next month, is pleased to report that the New England 65 Plus Runners Club will host the event. The organization is now in its sixteenth year and the group boasts more than 600 members from throughout New England and beyond.

Older runners who were unable to compete in races created the club, as a result of the frustration that they experienced. Since the club was formed, more than ninety percent of New England athletic events now include age divisions for participants in the age brackets of 60, 70 and 80.

Prior to the club's formation, it was rare to find events with age categories to accommodate participants over 50. This year's fundraiser will support Dave McGillivray's DMSE Children Fitness Foundation.

This organization's efforts are aimed at solving the ever-challenging problem of childhood obesity.

The foundation is active in creating projects that promote a healthy environment for children and their families.

Last year, with the combined effort of Galvin Middle School Athletic Director Janel Stevenson, the Fifth Annual Run For All Ages raised money to help support the Climbing Wall Project at GMS in Wakefield. This year's event will again support that project. The race will be held on Sunday, October 28 at 12:00 noon. The 5K course will follow scenic Lake Quannapowitt, beginning at and ending at the Lord Wakefield Best Western Hotel, located on North Avenue.

Awards will be given to the top three overall male and female winners and in 31 age categories from 12 and under to 85 and over.

Free food and refreshments will be available, along with a post race raffle and post race party.

For more information or to obtain a race application, visit www.ne65plus.org or call 781-334-4591.

Latin flavors poll Salsa has replaced ketchup as condiment of choice

The increasing fusion of cultures in the U.S. is reflected in a number of recent trends, particularly in the Latinization of the nation.

For example, according to an online survey by Kelton

Research, 51 percent of those polled report that salsa has replaced ketchup as their condiment of choice, and 63 percent of those 21 to 34 say they would rather snack on a tortilla chip than a potato chip.

The survey also found that when Americans eat what was described as "ethnic food," they choose Mexican cuisine most often (36 percent), followed by Italian and Asian.

When it comes to alcohol, beverages, nearly half (47 percent) of those surveyed said that they like the idea of beer served in the Mexican style of adding lime or salt.

American companies have caught on to the transculturalism trend and are launching products that embrace both Hispanic and American cultures. For example, Miller Brewing Company recently launched a new chelada-style light beer called Miller Chill, fusing the best of two cultures with light beer from America and the chelada-style beer from Mexico.

Miller Chill is an American take on the classic Mexican chelada recipe and it is said to be the only light beer brewed with a hint of lime and a pinch of salt.

"Miller's decision to launch a chelada-style beer reflects the fact that Latin culture is having a significant influence on the attitudes and behaviors of general market consumers," said transculturalism expert Claude Grunitzsky.

As author of Transculturalism: How the World Is Coming Together, and chairman and editor of TRACE magazine, Grunitzsky provides support for transcultural styles and ideas on a global level.

A League cycling instructor, certified by the League of American Bicyclists, will teach the class.

"MassBike's bicycling skills classes are a great way for a bicyclist to get more comfortable riding on busy roads," said MassBike executive director

David Watson. "Our classes help people get more comfortable on their bikes, better understand and follow traffic laws, and improve their situation awareness of everything going on around them on the road."

If you are considering a move to an independent or assisted living community or have a loved one in need of skilled care ... it's time for a legal checkup.

➤ If you or your spouse has had a change in physical or mental condition, you should learn about the many programs and services that are available to you whether you want to remain in your home or are considering a move to an independent or assisted living community.

➤ If your Power of Attorney is not durable, it is not sufficient. If you have a Durable Power of Attorney, but it is only a few pages long, it is probably not sufficient for many common issues that elders face.

➤ If you and your spouse have "sweetheart" Wills (each of you leaves everything to your beloved spouse...), consider drafting new Wills which could protect your assets if one of you requires nursing home care.

Exercise greater control over your future by scheduling a legal checkup today.

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

YELLOW TAPE, CHESS, ATHLETES AND $400,000

Way cool in Winchester

"On October 31, billionaire Oliver Townie planned a ferry trip and costume ball for 300 guests, but he was found dead on the second floor of his mansion," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Now it is up to 65 detectives ages seven to 11 years old to solve the crime in one week."

"If you had entered McCall Middle School science classrooms that week, then you would have seen yellow tape across its door, warning visitors to stay away. The Cool Science Club (CSC) detectives were inside excitedly conducting investigations, studying forensic evidence, and solving this old case."

"There was an invisible note to examine using sodium hydroxide, a mystery powder found near the body to identify by testing for chemical reactions, footprints to measure to calculate the height of the suspect, fake blood splatter samples to measure to investigate whether the person was standing or sitting - and more!"

"The observant detectives are also visited by special guests at the party like Meg Tabasco of the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority, who had students explore a hands-on lab about pH. There was Top Secret scientist Mike Bergen, who showed students the magic of science."

"Two crime computer labs were available with instructors to use the FACES police program to increase observational skills. They also reenacted the crime by taking a ferry to learn about George's Island and participated in a terrific costume party!"

"After one week, the crime was solved. Oliver had faked his death and took his money to an island in the Caribbean hoping to frame Jillian and Archie who had a secret plan to murder Oliver!"

"CSC detectives departed on Friday, pleased that they had solved the case, but a little bit sad to be leaving the new friends they had made."

"Don't worry - Cool Science Club returns next summer with a real cold case robbery and a second week with a mystery science concept to investigate each day. The website has been set up. The Cool Science Club hopes to see some smart, young - and very cool - new detectives then!"

Ready for 2007-2008 in Stoneham

Athletes in North Reading

"High School Principal Jon C. Bernard has announced the appointment of David Johnson to the position of High School Athletic Director," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"Johnson brings a great deal of experience in North Reading, having served as Athletic Director at Austin Prep in Reading and Arlington High School. He holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Physical Education from Springfield College and is scheduled to receive his master's degree from Cambridge College later this year. He lives with his wife and two children in Reading."

"Johnson was selected from a field of 31 candidates who applied for the position. In addition to his Athletic Director duties, he will teach one physical education class."

"Johnson officially assumed his duties in early August."

"I'm excited to join Mr. Bernard and his staff. I've always heard good things about North Reading," Johnson said.

"The new AD said his goal will be to 'take the North Reading program and make it as good as it possibly can be. I've already met with some of the fall coaches and I can see they have high expectations. All the coaches I've met seem very enthusiastic and have their own expectations and goals.'"

"In addition to meeting with coaches in August, Johnson will be touching base with other Athletic Directors in the Cape Ann League."

"Johnson said his philosophy will be to 'take a look at everything. If it ain't broke, don't fix it, but if there's room for improvement, tweak it a little.'"

Decision in Woburn

"Restricting the manner in which the funding could be used, the City Council's Finance Committee backed a proposal to transfer $400,000 from Reeves demolition accounts to WMHS construction reserves," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"According to city-hired consultant Patrick Saitta, several unforeseen expenses, including the unearthing of two large rock outcroppings at the WMHS site and the default of general contractor Macomber Builders, gobbled up the remaining portion of project reserves in recent months."

"The Municipal Building Consultant president further estimated that outstanding bills associated with the negotiated transition from Macomber to South Boston firm CTA Construction would run somewhere in the range of $100,000."

"And with nothing in the bank, the city-hired construction manager argued that the $400,000 transfer was necessary to avoid any delays on the job, as without the money, the city would have to repeatedly approach the council for an appropriation before approving new expenses."

"The long and the short of it is we've hit an awful lot of rock at the high school site," the consultant said, referring to $800,000 worth of unplanned ledge removal. "The other thing that [contributed], unfortunately, is Macomber Construction, which has been in business for 100 years, defaulted."

"There's a need to have at least a five percent contingency," added Saitta, speaking of the $300,000 that will be slated for project reserves. "One thing that's paramount is to make sure that job stays on schedule...."

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION:

Who scored the first three-point basket in NBA history? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•Out of a starting field of 12 golfers, MARY LOU DOYLE OF STONEHAM is the winner of the Match Play Championship at Bear Hill Country Club, and BEVERLY DWYER OF READING is the Match Play Championship runner up.

•WILMINGTON WILDCATS SENIOR TAILBACK ERNIE MELLO scored seven touchdowns in a 47-33 Cape Ann League shootout win over Lawrence. Bentley was the only Division II school at the meet, which was won by Syracuse, who edged host Boston College.

JUNIOR CAROLINE S H E E D Y (READING/READING HS) crossed the finish line in 20:20, followed closely by senior Meaghan Munroe (Haverhill/Haverhill HS) ten seconds later. Freshman Cheryl Martin (Pittsfield/St. Joseph Central HS) was the fourth Falcon finisher with a 21:06, while freshman Lori Heintzelman (Marietta, Ga./Holy Innocents Episcopal HS) and senior Katelyn McCoy (Arlington/Arlington HS) rounded out the field.

Valparaiso junior Laura Rolf (Rochester, Mich.) won the race, completing the course in 17:14..

Countertop trends: The Quartz

You've seen and felt it in homes across the country, in your local trendy coffee shops, in banks, high end restaurants, spas, salons and hotels. Quartz surfaces have been used in up-scale homes around the world for more than 15 years but have more recently entered the American market in grandiose fashion.

Thanks to increased manufacturer product development, quartz premium countertops are in high demand as a must-have in new and remodeled homes and businesses throughout the country.

"Quartz surfaces are experiencing incredible growth which is driven by the style, luxury and durability quartz delivers," explained Mark Hanna, President of Leeza Distribution Inc., distributor of HanStone Fine Quartz Surfaces.

According to the recent Freedonia Group Report on countertop industry trends, there has been a definite shift in the marketplace over the last few years as quartz has become the fastest growing market segment in the industry with 13 per cent growth compared to granite's five per cent.

Quartz has become the elegant answer for those who love the look of granite but are concerned about its drawbacks. Unlike granite, which can be permanently stained by cooking oils and grease, or etched by the acids in common household products, quartz is resistant to these stain hazards.

"Quartz surfaces are growing in popularity because they have the appearance of natural stone, but unlike granite, these surfaces never need to be sealed," Hanna said. "Quartz is a non-porous material, which means it will not promote the growth of mold, mildew or bacteria. This is why our HanStone surfaces are certified NSF 51 (with the National Sanitation Foundation)."

And while granite is subject to unpredictable variations in color or pattern between slabs, making matching of sections of countertops difficult, quartz, is an engineered stone which is consistent in color pattern and texture.

There's still time to catch the fair market!

The contemporary ranch helps keeps building economical

Charming windows front the two-story, contemporary ranch-style Carter. Economical to build and maintain, this home is designed to fit on a city lot narrower than it is deep. The crisp grid work design on the front door is echoed in the sidelights, windows, garage door, and two sets of doors that face the rear.

This 1,900-square-foot plan has three bedrooms and three bathrooms. Family gathering areas flow together in one large, open area at the rear, giving the home a wonderfully spacious feeling.

The long entry foyer and hallway are bathed in natural light that washes in through a sidelight, transom, and two large skylights. An owners' suite, with a deep walk-in closet and dual vanity, is to the left, as is the stairway leading to the second floor bedrooms and bathroom.

Doors on the left lead into a utility room that's linked to the garage. It's also a good place for drying off a muddy dog, or shedding grungy footgear. A small bathroom is located right next to the wide open family gathering space.

Windows flank the fireplace along the living room's rear wall. French double doors open into a den that has patio access. In the dining area, another set of French doors swing in to allow plenty of air circulation, along with patio access close to the kitchen.

Convenient Location!

This rare Wilmington two family is located across from the playground & is in walking distance to train & shopping. Oversized lot & farmer's porch on the 1st floor. Each unit offers 2 BRs, eat-in kitchen, LR & den. Beautiful HW floors. Separate utilities & plenty of parking. A great time to invest. Can't beat the location!
